GENOA, May 12.—The delegation representing the British empire at the international economic conference has accepted Russia's reply as the satisfactory base for a European trade open the way to a deterioration of the economic situation of Europe.

"But this plan presupposed that the foreign powers who organized armed intervention in Russia would cease interfering toward Russia the language of the victor to the vanquished, Russia not having been vanquished.

The only language which could have led to a common agreement was that which states adopt toward each other in contracting upon a basis of equality.

CONCESSIONS TO BRING AGREEMENT.

"Russia remains disposed, in order to assure the success of the agreement, to consent to serious concessions toward the foreign powers, but on this absolute condition, that these concessions shall correspond equivalent concessions.

GENEVA, May 26. (Radio Lloyd.)—Lloyd today announced his decision to propose a ten-year military non-aggression military truce for all Europe on a basis existing frontiers.

The Geneva conference will be asked to become parties to the Pan-European pact, regardless of the Russian attitude.

Lloyd George proposed today that a mixed commission be set up to study the situation to be ties. The popular masses in Russia could not accept an agreement in which the concessions granted to them should be at their counterparty's real advantages.

"A different outcome, and one suggested by the difficulties of the situation, would be reciprocal concessions. The same are claimed flowing out of the past between Russia and the other powers. But even in this case the Russian government has decided to respect the interests of the small bondholders.

STUDY URGED OF FINANCE ISSUES.

Meanwhile Lloyd George proposes a truce, designed to prevent the conflict between the eastern frontiers of Europe. Russia would be a party to this truce, he said. Tchitcherine, head of the Russian delegation, has agreed to this, with certain conditions.

The Polish delegation today clarified that if discussion of vital Galicia questions was insisted upon, the Polish representatives would withdraw from conference.

At the evening Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia, speaking in the name of the little entente, pressed the opinion today that conference must be adjourned until the next few days.

considering the storm of protest many an individual of the collapse of the entente might raise in England.

After reading the document, Barthou's only comment was: "It is less an answer than an indictment of the powers, coupled with a final refusal to reply to the questions put to them (the Russians)."

The British view, as given by Sir Edward Grey, was that the note "certainly calls for a rejoinder."

MUCH TALK FOR

HOME CONSUMPTION.

All the delegates are saying many things, it is believed they do not really mean, and underneath there undoubtedly is a general desire to reach some agreement which will make Europe peaceful.

The Genoa conference will support the pope's claims regarding freedom of worship and religious education in Russia. Monsignor Pizzardo, deputy secretary of the conference, was assured before departing for Rome yesterday. This leaves aside the question of restitution of church property, as any action on this subject by the conference, it is held, might be interpreted as foreign interference in Russia's internal affairs.

Pope Pius, it is said, will probably appoint a special envoy to Russia to assist in settling all questions concerning Catholics.

Cyclone Rips Gown Off Indiana Woman

WILLIAMSPORT, Ind., May 12.—Among the freak performances of the cyclone which the other day virtually wiped the village of Hedrick off the face of the earth, was the home of Mrs. Etta Hurley. When the funnel-shaped cloud, freighted with human forms, trees and parts of homes and barns, had passed, nothing of the Hurley residence in its flight, Mrs. Hurley stood almost nude, but unharmed. The wind had whirled off her garments, divesting her of all outer clothing. A thirteen-year-old daughter, who was standing a few feet away, was unscathed. A piano standing stark and alone, marked the spot where the house had been.

Woman, 100, Barks At Jury Service

MOBILE, Ala., May 12.—There'll be no complications from mixed jury service in the young life of Mrs. Mary A. McLane, Mobile centenarian, who celebrated the hundredth anniversary of her birth by registering and qualifying for exercise of the franchise.

She declared in emphatic language that she does not propose to serve on any jury, in spite of the fact that she has become a full-fledged citizen.

"Yes," she said, "I have registered and can vote now. But I won't serve on the jury. No, I won't go on the jury, but I'll vote."

conomic reconstruction of Europe and Russia and the consolidation of peace.

"Russia came to the conference with a conciliatory purpose, and hopes still that her efforts in this direction will be crowned with success."

One passage of the preamble says:

"Instead of credit being afforded to the Russian government the allies enumerate credits which the various governments are ready to grant to those of their citizens who may wish to trade with Russia. But this question, interesting as it may be for the individual merchant of other countries, has nothing to do with the question raised by the Russian delegation."

RUSSIAN NEED

OLD MONEY IS TOLD.

"These very merchants and industrialists will not be able to utilize credits to the extent desired unless the Russian government is assured of the financial means necessary to revive the productive forces of the country—a condition indispensable to the existence of commercial relations of any magnitude between Russia and other states."

Discussing whether Russia is responsible for the damage to property in Russia by foreigners, the reply says:

"Revolution, being assimilated like all great popular movements to the category of force majeure, does not confer title to indemnity upon the sufferers therefrom. When foreign citizens, supported by their governments, demand reparation from the Russian government, the Russian government is bound to reimburse losses to them by the revolutionary events of 1905 and 1906. The Russian government rejected the demands, basing its refusal on the fact that, not having accorded damages to its own subjects for similar losses, it could not place foreigners in a privileged position."

CHECK ON AGITATION.

With reference to Clause One of the memorandum, the reply says: "The memorandum of the allies demands that Russia suppress upon her territory any attempts to aid revolutionary movements in other countries. If by this formula the memorandum means to prohibit the activities of political parties and organizations of workers, the Russian delegation cannot accept the prohibition, at least insofar as the activities in question do not transgress the laws of the country."

"In the same clause the memorandum demands that Russia 'abstain from all action tending to disturb the political and territorial status quo in other states. The Russian delegation considers this demand, a veiled attempt to make Russia recognize treaties concluded by other states. But that is a political question which Russia is ready to discuss at the proper moment with the powers involved."

"Another political question introduced in the memorandum is that of the relations between Rumania and Russia, indicated in clause thirteen. As this question is part of the totality of questions, political, territorial and otherwise, at issue between Russia and Rumania, it cannot be examined separately."

U. S. PRECEDENTS.

Discussing the financial clause, the reply, after remarking that the United States repudiated treaties of its predecessors, England and Spain, says:

"The governments of victorious states did not hesitate during the war and especially at the conclusion of the treaties of peace to seize the property of subjects of the vanquished states situated in their territory, even in foreign territory. Conformably with these precedents Russia cannot be obliged to assume any responsibility whatever toward foreign powers and the citizens for annulment of public debts and the nationalization of private property."

Replying to clause seven of the memorandum, the Russians say: "The poor parties have been rendered more difficult still by the obstinacy of certain states in imposing upon Russia through Article 7 obligations conflicting with her

British Ready To Meet Russ Compromise Plan

GENOA, May 12.—A statement of the British view of the Russian reply terms the document "very stupid" from the standpoint of Russian interests.

Mr. E. S. Wangerheim, second vice-president, said the view that Europe is to be denied peace or the Russian people further consideration in their misery simply because of a stupid argument.

"We are quite prepared to go into the suggestion that the questions of credits, debts and private property be referred to a mixed commission."

"Regarding the other aspect of the Russian document—namely, the peace of Europe—this affords a satisfactory basis for further negotiations."

Attempt to Revive Snakes Is Failure

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., May 12.—When three dozen snakes, rattlers, cottonmouths and other varieties—were drowned by high water which flooded their pit at a carnival field here, a physician attempted to revive the reptiles by application of electricity. It was a vain experiment, however. Two dozen alligators, assorted sizes, in the same pit appeared to enjoy the bath.

$2,000,000 Merger of Pacific Sanitary Company Is Announced.

RICHMOND, May 12.—A $2,000,000 merger of pottery interests in Richmond, was announced by the Pacific Sanitary Manufacturing Company's office at San Francisco yesterday. The capacity of the several plants combined here will be doubled.

The officers of the new corporation are: N. W. Starns, president; M. E. Wangerheim, first vice-president; E. S. Wangerheim, second vice-president; Miss May Blum, secretary; Claire Cameron will continue as head of the plant in North Richmond, and W. A. Patter will head the two plants at Barrett avenue and San Pablo.

U. S. PASSPORT REVISION ASKED

By International News Service. SHANGHAI, May 12.—A request for the revision of the American passport regulations has been made to the State Department through Consul-General E. S. Cunningham by the American Chamber of Commerce.

The present American regulations provide that if a passport has expired and it is desired to renew it, application must be accompanied by $10—gold. Approximately ninety days is necessary to forward the application to Washington and obtain renewal of the passport. In the meantime, if the applicant desires to travel on business trips in the Far East, it becomes necessary for him to obtain an emergency passport from the local consulate. This also costs $10.

In its letter the Chamber points out that local British residents may obtain passports from their Consul General for $2—gold—such passports being valid for two years and renewable for four further periods of two years each upon payment of a fee equivalent to 10 cents—gold. The Chamber asks that similar provisions be made by the United States.

Sight of Real Woe Turns Girl From Suicide

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—Alvarita DeLong, 24, who came here from Redlands yesterday resolved to end her life, has gone home convinced that her troubles are insignificant and that life is still worth while.

She quarreled with her sweetheart, left a farewell note to her mother and took the train.

Detectives and Mrs. Minnie Barton, probation officer, met Alvarita when she arrived and Mrs. Barton talked to her kindly, then took her on a strange tour.

Together they visited the jails and hospital and Mrs. Barton showed the girl people who "have real troubles."

"I didn't know such things existed," said the girl. "Let me go home. I want to live."

NEW HEARING WON IN $100,000 SUIT FOR ALIENATION

Mrs. Mohr Given Right to Press Again Claim Against Mrs. Tingley.

A third hearing of the suit in which Mrs. Irene M. Mohr won an award of $100,000 damages in the lower court, which she subsequently lost in the Appellate Court, was granted her yesterday by the State Supreme Court.

The award in question was for damages against Mrs. Katharine Tingley, supreme leader of the International Brotherhood and Theosophical Society, who is charged by Mrs. Mohr with having alienated the affections of her husband, Dr. George F. Mohr.

The suit was first brought by Mrs. Mohr in 1918. The testimony showed that Dr. and Mrs. Mohr took up residence at Point Loma, the headquarters of the Theosophical Institute, sixteen years ago. Mrs. Mohr charged that Mrs. Tingley induced her husband to give large sums of money to the Theosophical cause.

HOW SHORT IS 'LONG ENOUGH,' FLAPPERS' WAIL

YPSILANTI, Mich., May 13.—Poor, puzzled "flappers," of Michigan State Normal school, seventeen of whom were dismissed and fifteen placed on strict probation because of alleged "social indiscretions," must continue to live in a state of uncertainty. What to wear and what not to wear, how much to wear or how little, where to wear it, and how, still are among the mysteries the Ypsilanti girls seek to solve. All hope that a set of formal "flapping" rules would be laid down was abandoned after the State Board of Education adjourned without issuing the expected dress dictum stipulating dress length and hair length in inches and whether heels should be French or otherwise. Specifications on rolltops, lipstick and rouge appeared beneath the dignity of the educators.

The State Board declared that all disciplinary measures of the school must rest entirely with the president and heads of departments, just as this responsibility has rested for the past sixty-six years. The board's single direct expression on feminine foibles would indicate that henceforth discerning young women will do their smoking and other "flapper" stunts in private. "But," wail the flappers, "how are we to know? What is the long and short of it after all? For instance, how short is too short?"

New Scandal Breaks in Major League Baseball

Felsch, in his affidavit, insinuates by inferential questions, that Comiskey personally participated in the alleged conspiracy to persuade the Detroit club to throw the 1917 games.

Comiskey is now spending a vacation on his farm at Eagle River, Wisconsin.

Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, refused the Felsch action, saying he guessed no one would pay much attention to what Felsch charges.

CHARGES RIDICULOUS, SAYS DETROIT MAN.

DETROIT, May 12.—Characterizing as "ridiculous" charges by "Buck" Weaver, banished White Sox ballplayer, that the Detroit Tigers "threw" the American League pennant in 1917 to the Chicago American League team, Chas. F. Nevin, secretary of the Detroit club, said today:

"I trust Detroiters will not even consider seriously the charges of Weaver, much less believe him. He is a discredited man, known to be dishonest and in making the charge he is unquestionably actuated by an ulterior motive."

"I don't care to discuss the charge at length—it is ridiculous, too foolish to reply to. The Tigers cannot be injured by the charge of Weaver, much less believe him. He is a discredited man, known to be dishonest and in making the charge he is unquestionably actuated by an ulterior motive."

TWO NEW SUITS TO BE FILED FOR PLAYERS.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The baseball scandal pot which was set boiling again yesterday by Oscar "Happy" Felsch, with his charges of crookedness in the 1917 American League pennant race of the Chicago White Sox and Detroit, had more material stirred into its bubbling contents today when Sheriff Patrick McManus was given summons for the Chicago American League Baseball Club to defend itself against two new suits.

The new suits are similar in nature to the suit of Felsch, and are to be started in behalf of "Swede" Risberg, former White Sox shortstop, and Joe Jackson, former outfielder, who are members now of the outlawed black Sox, touring the south.

They demand damages for being barred from organized baseball, back pay and bonus money.

The Chicago American League club is incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin. Charles Comiskey, president of the club, is at his summer home near Eagle River, Wisconsin, and so far has not been reached for comment to appear in court here tomorrow.

OLD CHICAGO PLAYERS GIVE OUT DENIAL.

BOSTON, May 12.—Detailed discussion of the latest charges of irregularities against the Chicago White Sox, made at Milwaukee by Happy Felsch, one of the former members of the Sox involved in the scandal of the world's series of 1919, was withheld by press members of the team who came here today.

Manager Gleason said he knew nothing of any of the facts related by Felsch. The present players who were members of the team in 1917 and 1918, speaking through Eddie Collins, the captain, said Felsch was really seeking to hurt organized baseball, which had cast him out. They scouted the insinuation that President Charles A. Comiskey had conspired to have the Detroit Club lose games in 1917 so that Chicago might win the pennant.

Addressing Boston newspapermen Collins pointed to Detroit's successes in a late season series here that year to show the fallacy of the claim. "If Comiskey were president of the White Sox," said he, "he would not discuss the case until it came before the courts."

BOMB BURSTS IN CAR AT BELFAST

Violence Increases in Ireland and Dozen Persons Are Injured.

DUBLIN, May 12 (By International News Service).—The peace move in the Irish free state was overshadowed today by ominous news of violence and threatened violence in the north. More than half a dozen persons were wounded in Belfast.

A bomb that was being carried in a suitcase exploded on a Belfast street car, wounding four people. A girl of 10 and a boy were wounded by firing in the streets. One of the victims of the street car bomb subsequently died.

A boy of 14 who had been wounded at Belfast several weeks ago died of his injuries.

Success in Will

Power, Speaker Says

NEW YORK, May 12.—Lay on the whip of the will to attain anything you desire—success, health or wealth!

That is the philosophy of Lucius D. Humphrey, lecturer on "Constructive Thinking," who says he has even cured himself of deafness by his own special brand of will power.

Worry, fear, sickness, failure, anything, may be overcome if the powers of the mind are applied to the task, according to Humphrey.

Humphrey goes further than the quotation from the old play, "A Witness for the Defense," which says:

"You can have anything you want in this world, but you can't control the price. That you pay afterwards and gradually."

Humphrey maintains that by proper application you can even control the price, and no matter whether your desires are good or bad, the reckoning, accordingly, will be to your liking.

CHICAGO, May 12.—"The American lady, her independence, her femininity, they overwhelm me!" asserts Rene Calay, son of the "Scheuch of France," who is here gathering material for a series of sketches of America.

"Such short skirts, and low bodices!" he protested. "In France it would not be possible. She is not woman, neither is she man. She is in banks, offices, even the stockyards. And yet with all her participation in men's fields she is still a girl."

"She treats mere man like a dog instead of reciprocating his gifts. M. Calay is not unkind of America's charms."

U. S. TROOPS SENT TO TONGSHAN TO MAINTAIN ORDER

Forces Will Protect Foreigners in Vicinity; New War Looms, Report.

PEKING, May 12 (By the Associated Press).—One hundred American soldiers have been despatched to Tongshan, a few miles northeast of Tien Tsin.

A train flying allied flags left Tien Tsin for Chinwangtao on the coast of the gulf of Chihli, but was unable to proceed on account of the congestion of Chinese forces. The American troops are to maintain communication and to protect foreigners in the vicinity of the Kaiping coal mines.

The troops of General Wu Pei Fu, who defeated the Manchurian forces of General Chang Tso-Lin last week, are now entrenched at Tongshan. General Chang has his headquarters at Lianchow, between Tongshan and Chinwangtao with 45,000 Manchurian troops.

PEKING, May 12.—There was every indication this afternoon from reports received here through various sources that Chang Tso-Lin, defeated Manchurian war lord, is massing his forces for a stamp at Lwan Chow on the Peking-Mukden railroad, and that he has turned the disorderly retreat of his forces from the Peking area into an orderly retirement to prepared positions.

One, apparently authentic report stated he has massed 30,000 men along the river which flows through Lwan Chow and is prepared there to offer battle if Wu's forces advance further. Wu's main army is now located at Chung Liang Chen.

SHIH KIA CHWANG, China, May 12.—Wu Pei Fu plans the early abolition of the southern China government which is headed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, an ally of the defeated Manchurian war lord, Chang Tso-Lin.

China's new leader made this declaration today in an exclusive interview with International News Service in which he outlined his program for China's reconstruction.

"At the earliest possible moment I will call a reconstruction national assembly," he said. "It is my purpose to reunite the country by means of an assembly of the representatives of the guilds and other organizations selected by the various provinces."

General Wu then outlined his program in detail. It includes these salient features: Provisions for foreign loans on a plan opening the way for foreign money to enter China with safe guarantees and without obstruction to begin development of natural resources.

Creation of a famine-preventing board.

A program of railway extension to foster development.

Disbandment of unnecessary army corps.

U. S. Corn Hailed As Russia's Savior

SAMARA, May 12.—American corn, which, as result of American participation in Russian famine relief, is to be sown this spring for the first time, in many parts of the Volga valley, is hailed by Soviet agricultural propagandists as "the giant grain" destined to save the valley from further fears of famine. "Kokukusha," as the Russians call Indian corn, is lauded poetically in full-page illustrated newspaper appeals to the peasants to sow it. Methods of cultivation are explained and the papers picture fields of maize higher than a man's head, likely to be secured from corn even at a period when drought would kill wheat and rye.

PUBLICITY GIVEN TO EXPERIMENTS ON DUMB BRUTES

Open Door Policy to Guide Medical Research Work, Woman Says.

NEW YORK, May 12.—An open door policy in the laboratories of medical research, where experiments are conducted on animals was announced today by Miss Maude Phillips, of Springfield, Mass. Miss Phillips said that this was the first public declaration of this principle that has ever been made in the United States and that the Blue Cross Society is the first humane society to co-operate actively with scientists as a body in behalf of animal protection in medical research.

Miss Phillips' announcement preceded signed statements by the directors and deans of a large number of the 86 laboratories where experiments are made on animals declaring their willingness to admit members or officials of humane societies so that these may acquaint themselves with the actual conditions under which animal experimentation is being conducted.

In several instances the proviso was made that visitors should have previously observed an operation on a human being as a condition to being able to appreciate the humanness of laboratory methods.

A number of the deans and directors assert in their statements that it has long been their custom to admit to their laboratories as visitors responsible persons who are interested in learning about the methods used in advancing medicine by experiments on lower animals.

In her announcement Miss Phillips says that humane societies can send their officials at any time to investigate the laboratories of medical research just as they would any place where animals are used or employed. She added:

"Thus a new epoch begins in the relations between organized humaneness and scientific research with animals and, from now on, criticism of its activities in the case so far as this country is concerned, would be unreasonable and superfluous."

One Balloon Will Carry Radio in Race

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 12 (By the Associated Press).—One of the government balloons which will compete in the national balloon race for 1922, to start here May 31, will carry a complete and new radio alignment, which will be tested here for the first time. For the third time American army and navy balloons will compete against civilians. Most of the government pilots saw service in the world war. The army will send three balloons and the navy two, but great secrecy appears to surround the entry of these balloons.

DISABLED WAR VETERANS WILL CONVEVE HERE

Sessions of the California Department to Be Held on May 26 and 27.

Disabled American War Veterans of the World War, California Department, will convene in Oakland Friday and Saturday, May 26 and 27. The business sessions will be held in the municipal auditorium. Saturday afternoon and evening has been set aside for the social program for the veterans and their wives. In the afternoon they will enjoy a ride about the bay aboard a United States destroyer, provided by the Navy Department. The balance of the day will include a banquet, a visit to Idora Park and a dance in the big pavilion. Oakland Chapter, American War Mothers, of which Mrs. Charles Haines is president, will be hosts to the veterans. L. B. Gross is chairman of the committee arranging the convention, and J. P. Callaghan of Berkeley is another member of the committee.

CLUB DONATES FUND. LODI, May 12.—The Lodi Men's Club, organized a year ago and which has been inactive for some months, has wound up its affairs by donating its entire treasury—$150—to the city playgrounds for general purposes. Prior to taking this step the old officers informed members they could have their dues back if they cared to call and get them. Few cared.

TELEGRAM CAUSE OF NEEDLESS FEAR

"Run to the door, Emily, and see who's there. Mrs. Bradley said she might run over this afternoon." "Oh, mother, it's a telegram. Open it quick. I'm so excited." "Dear me! Now you've got me all upset. A telegram always gives me such a fright. Well! Well! Isn't that fine. It's from your father's sister, Alice, and she and her husband are coming to California for the summer. It says they will arrive here on Saturday. My goodness, Emily! Phone your father quick. We must get the house fixed up right away. And your aunt is quite a dresser. I ought to get me a nice new suit to wear when we go out of town." "Oh, mother, get one of those attractive tricotines suits with the long coats. You would look wonderful in a navy blue one and a black hat." "Oh, those suits cost too much and I'm getting too stout for a suit like that. They're for young folks." "Oh, mother, you do make me furious sometimes. Don't you know that those long lines are the thing for people like you. Make you look tall and dignified. And I saw just what you want at Cherry's, 515 13th street. And the best thing about Cherry's is that you can pay most anything down that's satisfactory and then make monthly payments for the rest. And while you are at it you may as well take dad over to the men's store at 528 13th street, and have him pick out a new suit and pay for it on easy terms.—Advertisement.

1921 Birth Rate Of Japanese Is Highest Recorded

SACRAMENTO, May 12.—The Japanese birth rate in California during 1921 was highest of any year in the history of the State, according to final estimates compiled by L. E. Ross, registrar of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health.

The estimates show a total of 5257 Japanese births during the year, or an average of 244 births per thousand Japanese married women. During 1920 Japanese births in California totalled 4971, or an average of 232 to every thousand married Japanese women.

As a comparison, the figures showed that 65,533 children were born to white women during 1921, which is an average of 127 births per thousand white married women.

Actual comparison of the birth rate gives the Japanese a rate of 68.8 during the year and the white women a rate of 12.7. The highest rate of all is found among the Chinese. During 1921 there were 609 children born to Chinese women, or an average per thousand of 474.

Ross' estimates give a total of 72,438 births for all races during the year, or a rate of 20.2, and a total of 47,379 deaths at a rate of 13.1.

DRY VIOLATOR JUMPS OVER HIGH FENCES

It had been reported to the police that boys and girls were being supplied with liquor at the place. Prohibition Agent C. H. Wheeler announced that he will start abatement proceedings against the Occident hotel, Castro street, Hayward, which was raided yesterday. The owner of the place, Harry Brown, was arrested.

Congressman Scores Wilson Debt Legacy

LINCOLN, Neb., May 12.—The Wilson administration "left a legacy of debt and claims which will plague us for 100 years," Representative W. J. Graham of Illinois declared before the State Republican Central Committee here last night. He ascribed five-eighths of the public debt to acts of the Democratic administration, and maintained that partial audits had disclosed more than $85,000,000 in errors and over-payments under the government operation of railroads and $40,000,000 in overpayments of war claims under the notorious Dent Act.

Professional Women Plan to Entertain

By EDNA B. KINARD.

While San Francisco will become the convention city for the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs next month, the Oakland organization will share in the hostess duties to the extent of entertaining the delegates for at least one day. Plans are being made for a luncheon to the visitors by leaders in the local Business and Professional Women's Club. The beauties and business opportunities of the Eastbay will be shown to the guests during their brief stay here if the present arrangements of the committee find acceptance. Mrs. Gladys E. Blandine is president of the Oakland group. Friday, June 23, has been tentatively named for Oakland Day.

The annual convention will claim the attention of the business and professional women of the state for three days beginning Thursday, June 22. Oakland was efficiently sold to the delegates to the twenty-first annual convention of California Federation of Women's Clubs meeting in Los Angeles this month, by Mrs. H. H. Platts, president of the Oakland group, who represented her organization in the south. Mrs. Platts motored to Los Angeles fully equipped with literature supplied by the Chamber of Commerce. When the convention was called to order the individual delegate found upon her chair illustrated booklets lauding Oakland as a home and business city, setting forth its beauty and reviewing its rapid development. The distribution was the work of Mrs. Platts, who followed up the literature with personal conversations in favor of her home city.

A campaign to place signs along the highways leading from the south calling attention to Oakland is proposed by the Oakland clubwoman.

"Echoes from the conference of Social Agencies held recently in San Diego" will give the program to the luncheon of the Social Workers of Alameda County, announced for Wednesday of next week. The Municipal bathhouse on Oak street has been selected for the occasion. Miss Elizabeth Skeele and Sam Ginsberg will be the speakers. Reservations are being made with Miss Alice Brookman, executive secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Daughters of the American Revolution look forward to a reciprocity card party which is announced for Monday, May 22, the residence of Mrs. Robert Lee Jewett, 45 Ashbury Terrace, San Francisco. The committee of arrangements includes Mrs. Robert Lee Jewett, Mrs. Alan Haines Vance, Mrs. W. W. Wymore, Mrs. Alexander Hilt, Mrs. Martin Newall, Mrs. John Wilson Hoyt, Mrs. Leigh Richmond Smith, Miss Anna E. Smith, Mrs. C. A. Lewis, Mrs. D. M. Ehlers, Mrs. J. M. Ballhache, Mrs. Raymond Perkins, Mrs. W. D. Egilbert, Mrs. Ivy Perkins Cerkel.

Round tables on Juvenile Court and Probation, Speakers' Bureau, Child Labor, Emblem and Magazine will be held on Tuesday morning. Leaders in Oakland Federation of Mothers' Clubs meet in the Y. W. C. A. building. The presidents' class of instruction will convene at 1 p. m., followed at 2 p. m. with a business meeting, when reports of local presidents will be presented.

The installation picnic, which will be given in Mosswood park is tentatively scheduled for Thursday, June 15. Arrangements for the annual affair will be completed next week.

"Everyday Life in the Arctic" was reviewed by Mrs. Esther Seewall Darling before the members of the Hill Club, meeting with Mrs. Wanger this week. Mrs. Ralph Seeley presented Edwin Markham's verse "When the Great Guest Came" as a cantillation. Musical

Alameda Citizen Suffered So Terribly from Indigestion He Was Afraid to Eat—Lost 26 Pounds.

"It is a fact, I began to feel like a new man before I finished my first bottle of Tanlac," said Joseph H. Peterson, 1025 Fair Oaks Ave., Alameda, Calif.

"For twelve years I suffered with stomach trouble. I had no appetite, was badly constipated, and would go without eating as long as I could, knowing when I did eat I would bleed up with gas and have a terrible choking sensation, and there would be such intense cramping pains in my stomach they would drive me almost frantic. I lost twenty-six pounds in weight in three weeks and was in such a miserable, run-down condition I could get but little sleep.

"Before I had finished my first bottle of Tanlac I felt like a different man, and now I've completely regained my health, strength and weight. Tanlac is a grand medicine and I will always praise it."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Woman's Complex Life

Woman's complex life with its multitudinous calls is given as the reason for many a nervous breakdown. Home work, social obligations, dressmaking and the care of children keep the 20th century woman in a whirlwind of activity until headaches develop, backache, nervousness and oftentimes more serious ills which are peculiar to her sex alone. Such women should not despair, but be guided by the letters so often published in this paper from women who have been in just such conditions, but who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This is a root and herb medicine that contains no drugs and can be taken in safety by any woman.—Advertisement.

U. S. LIBRARIANS WILL CONVEENE IN DETROIT IN JUNE

Trustees This Year to Hold
Special Meeting On Financing.

DETROIT, Mich., May 12.—More than fifty meetings will be held here between June 26 and July 1 at the forty-fourth annual conference of the American Library Association by its various sections, and by affiliated organizations and other groups which meet with the association. Librarians and library trustees from all parts of the United States and Canada will attend.

Almost every phase of library work will be discussed by representatives, librarians and library trustees. A special feature this year will be the meeting of the trustees' section on June 27, which will be devoted to a discussion of library financing.

President Marion LeRoy Burton of the University of Michigan, will be the guest of honor at the evening meeting and reception on Monday evening, June 26, and will address the members of the association and visitors. The presidential address will also be made on that evening by Professor Azarh E. Root of Oberlin College. Mayor James Couzens of Detroit and John C. Lodge, president of the Detroit common council, will be present to welcome the delegates. Harold H. Emmons, attorney and president of the Detroit Board of Commerce, will deliver an address to the librarians and trustees on July 1 on the "Individual's Responsibility to His Profession." This will be followed by several short talks, closing with an address by Adam Strohm, librarian of the Detroit public library.

One day of the conference will be spent at Ann Arbor at the invitation of the University of Michigan. Opportunity will be given for meetings and for visiting the library and other departments of the university.

EBEY AND FAMILY RETURN HOME

George Ebey, managing director of the Fulton theater, Mrs. Ebey and their young daughter, Frances, arrived in Oakland this morning after an absence of eight months. The Ebey family have been abroad for the last six months where Mrs. Ebey has been studying voice under Jean de Reska for grand opera. Ebey, who has been taking a much needed vacation, reports business conditions abroad and in the East to be far better than at home. "I cannot see, and I have talked to the men that know, anything but bright times ahead. Planners in New York, Paris and London are all of the same opinion. "I say fall we will be humming along with few worries and many pleasures. Theatrical conditions are very bright. We have many fine plays for next season, and several celebrities for the summer. Oakland looks more wonderful to me than ever, if possible, and I am glad to be back," he said. The Ebey family will be at the Columbia avenue for a few weeks before going to Camp Meeker, their mountain home, for the summer.

Year-'Round Golf In Wintry Climate

RIVERTON, N. J., May 12.—Year-round golf in a northerly climate is enjoyed by devotees of the sticks and bag here on the eighteen-hole course of the Riverton Country Club. Even winter fails to stop the game. According to Charles C. Miller, one of the members, this condition is due to the peculiar sandy soil over which the course is laid out. Half an hour after a severe rain the course is ready for playing, so rapid is the absorption.

SNOW STORMS IN ROCKIES SUBSIDE

DENVER, Colo., May 12.—Storms which swept the Rocky Mountain states Wednesday night and virtually all day Thursday, apparently had subsided last night. From Wyoming and Colorado points which had passed through what was declared to have been one of the worst spring blizzards in years, came reports of lower temperatures, moderated winds and a cessation of the snow fall which had given rise to apprehension on the part of fruit and sheep growers.

DEADWOOD, S. D., May 12.—The sleet and snow storm that held sway in the northern Black hills for the last two days was abated last night after the heavy precipitation caused several rivers to reach flood stages and inundated the towns of Spearfish and Bellefourche. No lives were lost.

FLOODS BRING FISH. PEORIA, Ill., May 13.—During the flood which has taken the Illinois River far out of its banks boys have been fishing in the ball park, which was inundated. Several large catches have been made.

Mexican Recognition Terms Are Compared

IOWA CITY, Ia., May 12.—A comparison of the Hayes policy relative to the recognition of Porfirio Diaz with that recently adopted by the United States relative to the recognition of Obregon "is pertinent and interesting," Professor Charles W. Hackett of the University of Texas, Austin, Tex., told the Mississippi Valley Historical Association at its meeting here today. The Hayes policy, he pointed out, was formulated on the only occasion between the close of the American civil war and 1911 when the United States had to consider the recognition of a Mexican government.

The announcement by the state department in 1877 of its Mexican policy "for fairness and lucidity" may be considered a classic among American diplomatic papers," Professor Hackett said.

"Mexico was assured at this time that the United States was in no wise interested in passing upon the legality or illegality of the Diaz or any other government in Mexico, but was content to know that such government was stable and in reality the de facto government of the country."

Y. W. C. A. DRIVE FOR FUNDS ENDS AT NOON MEETING

300 Men and Women Who Took Part in Campaign Make Their Report.

The 300 men and women in the Young Women's Christian Association drive organization met at noon today at the association building to make their final reports and close the campaign.

A. Leslie Oliver, general chairman, presided over the luncheon, which was attended by all the workers. Oliver congratulated the leaders and team members on the interest they had shown in their work and on the success which had attended their efforts.

The campaign was conducted to raise money in which to fill out the organization's operating fund for the year. The association produced 70 per cent of its necessary expenses through several revenue bearing departments, but found it necessary to ask the public for the remaining 30 per cent. The work-

LAW PLANNED TO END EATING OF CHEWING GUM

Chewing gum in Oakland will hereafter be labeled as chewing gum and not as candy or confections.

This ultimatum was delivered today by Health Officer Harry Foster as the result of several juvenile and infantile stomach-aches caused by swallowing the tempting bars of sweets.

Nor is the epidemic confined to Oakland. A report was received from Dr. J. Lee, head of the State pure food department, calling attention to the epidemic of chewing-gum-swallowing throughout the State, and demanding that proper labels be eliminated on every stick of gum.

Girl Finds Mother With Head Crushed

CLEVELAND, May 12.—Mrs. Helen Silverberg was found in her bedroom of her home with her head caved in when her 11-year-old daughter returned from school today. She was rushed to a hospital, but died on the operating table. Her skull was fractured in three places. Police have no clue, but suspect robbery was the motive for the murder.

OFFICER BREAKS SKULL TRYING TO CATCH BURGLAR

Special Policeman Falls in Rush to Answer False Alarm; Badly Hurt.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—His haste to aid in responding to a burglar alarm likely will cost the life of Special Policeman Carl Zimmerman of 427 Thirty-second avenue, who is at the Central emergency hospital with a fractured skull. Zimmerman was in the Richmond station when a message was received that burglars were breaking into a house at 181 Thirty-second avenue. Acting Lieutenant J. R. McCormack and Patrolman John A. Nash jumped in the police machine. Zimmerman started to follow, stumbled, fell from the running board and fractured his skull on the pavement. The burglar quest proved futile.

Blind Girl "Sees" With Nose

WILLETTA HUGGINS, 17, totally blind and deaf, astounded 500 physicians in Chicago at a meeting of the Chicago Medical Society by "hearing" and "seeing" through her finger-tips. She can hear a lecture or a concert by holding a thin sheet of paper between her fingers directed broadside toward the volume of sound. She discerns colors by odors. Before the Medical Society she separated several skeins of yarns and correctly told the colors by smelling. Among the experiments was one in which she rubbed her nose over a photograph and announced that it was a group picture of two men and a woman. It was. Photo shows Miss Huggins listening to a conversation by feeling of the person talking with her finger tips.—Copyright, 1922, by Underwood & Underwood.

JEWELS STOLEN ON TRAIN SOUGHT IN COAST CITIES

Fortune in Gems Taken From M. J. Harrison May 6 May Be Here.

Search for the jewels, valued at a figure between $100,000 and $200,000, which were stolen from M. J. Harrison, New York millionaire, while en route from San Francisco to New York, is being continued by the police of Oakland, San Francisco and other western railway centers.

The jewels were lost by Harrison on May 6 as he was traveling in the Pullman compartment of an east-bound train. Descriptions of the jewels, which are said to include some of the largest known clusters of pearls and diamonds, have been forwarded to the police by J. B. Cooke, local superintendent of the Pullman company.

The police are directing their investigations toward ascertaining whether attempts have been made to dispose of the gems to local dealers.

S. J. Church Plans Sunday Bazaar

Valentino, Noted Screen Lover, Now Has Romance in Real Life

RUDELPH VALENTINO, brilliant star of "Four Horsemen" and "Sheik" fame, whose engagement to heiress is announced, and GLORIA SWANSON, co-star in "Beyond the Rocks."

"Beyond the Rocks," Star's Latest Picture, Now at American Theatre For Second Week

As a lover of the make-believe screen sort, Rudolph Valentino, brilliant film actor, has captivated the admiration of millions. But in real life it appears that Valentino's attentions were directed toward the captivation of only one heart. His engagement to Miss Winifred Hudnut, daughter of a New York millionaire perfume manufacturer, was announced this week. She is a well-known illustrator and Valentino met her while she was art director for Nazimova. It was probably love making of the classical sort such as he displays in "Beyond the Rocks," now being shown at the American theater that won Valentino his fame. "Beyond the Rocks" is probably the most luxurious picture in which Valentino has yet been seen. He plays opposite glorious Gloria Swanson and gives another of his immaculate roles in impersonating Lord Bracondale, a dashing and handsome English nobleman. The picture is adapted from an Elinor Glyn story and in addition to being a splendid portrayal of European social life has a powerful theme and moral. The tremendous crowds have necessitated an extended engagement of the second week of the run starting tomorrow.—Advertisement.

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM MADE Y. M. C. A. LEADER SPEAKS AT C. OF C.

LIVERMORE, May 12.—A meeting of all the fraternal organizations of Livermore was held, pursuant to a call issued by Livermore Post, American Legion, at the Legion clubhouse for the purpose of arranging for the observance of Memorial Day here.

The meeting was presided over by L. R. C. Bunker, chairman of the American Legion committee in charge of the Memorial Day program. Representatives of 26 Livermore valley organizations were present to confer with the Legion committee, and plans were finally laid for the observance of the day along practically the same lines as those carried out last year.

The exact line of march has not been definitely decided upon as yet, but the parade will start at 9 o'clock and will be headed by the Livermore concert band, under the leadership of P. Dranghi, and all fraternal organizations, schools and citizens in general will fall in. At the town flagpole the parade will separate, each participant going to the cemetery of his selection. At the Masonic Odd Fellows and Catholic cemeteries a firing squad will fire a salute in honor of the departed soldier dead.

The principal speaker of the day will be Fred F. Bobergall, former State Adjutant, and now a member of the State Veterans' Welfare board.

The monthly meeting of the Sociability club was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jens Jensen. The usual game of "500" was played and at the end of the play the winners were Mrs. W. P. Kulser, first Mrs. Jens Jensen, second Mrs. M. Gunnarroll, consolation and draw. Refreshments were served at the close of the play. The substitutes for the afternoon were Mrs. Martin Peco and Mrs. Samuel Hauberg.

The Juniors of the Livermore High school entertained at a luncheon in honor of the Seniors and the faculty at the school building Thursday afternoon. The luncheon was presided over by Miss Margaret Meyers as toastmaster, and she called upon many present for speeches.

Battery C of Livermore took part in the parade held in Oakland Thursday night for the purpose of celebrating the opening of the new National Guard Armory on Twenty-third street, near San Pablo avenue. On Saturday afternoon Battery C will go to Oakland and attend an over-night camp at Leona Heights. On Sunday the members will receive instruction in pitching cannon.

Activities of WOMEN

Miss Hunt To Wed This Evening

Eastbay society looks forward this evening to the marriage of Miss Everard Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Everard Hunt, and Robert William Hills Jr., of San Francisco. The Hunt home in the Highlands will be the setting for the ceremony that is to be witnessed by some two hundred guests with a reception to follow. The beautiful home will be transformed into a bower of spring bloom—lilies, peonies and quantities of pink and lavender blossoms. Rev. Frank S. Brush, pastor of the Northbrae Presbyterian church, is to officiate.

Miss Hunt will be married in a satin with overdress of white lace. Her bridal veil will be of illusion held in place at the collar with a crown of orange blossoms. Garlands, lilies of the valley and orchids will be carried in the shower bouquet. Miss Mildred Dodge, who will be her sister's maid of honor, will wear a gown of apricot georgette, and Mrs. John Allan Stroud, another sister, will be matron of honor, wearing a gown of jade green georgette. Both frocks to be trimmed in an overdress of lace of the same hue. They will carry shower bouquets of roses and maidenhair fern.

There will be a quartet of bridesmaids—Mrs. George H. O'Connell, Miss Helen Trevor, Miss Ruth Grinn, Miss Marjorie Waldron. All will be in organdie frocks of lavender, peach, blue and green, and will carry bouquets of sweet peas in the shades to harmonize with their frocks.

Edward E. Hills will be best man for his brother and the ushers, Charles Dodge, Edward Pingst, Leslie Hill and Harold Naehtrieb. The couple will leave for a brief honeymoon immediately after the reception and in a fortnight again leave for a more extended trip, keeping their destination a secret from friends.

Miss Hunt is a graduate of Miss Head's school and the University of California. She is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Miss Elizabeth Pattison will entertain tomorrow afternoon in honor of her cousin, Miss Frances Mace, of San Francisco, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Sayre Mace (Viola Pattison). Miss Mace is a member of this year's graduating class at Miss Burke's in San Francisco. Later on Miss Mace will accompany Mrs. George Dinsmore on a trip to Europe.

WILL ARRIVE FROM TEXAS. Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Richardson Jr. (Bessie Gage), are expected to arrive within the coming fortnight from Austin, Texas, to summer in California. Usually they go to the eastern coast but this year decided to come west and will be the guests of Mrs. Richardson's sister, Mrs. George Gross, of this city. There will be a number of smart affairs to welcome the young matron to her former home.

Miss Gladys Cameron will be

MISS ELEANOR DAVIES, member of the Ala Lekis Club, which will give a carnival this evening at Plymouth Center.

Howard of Piedmont will preside as host and hostess at her home. The guests will be the members of the graduating class of '26 University of California of which the host is a member, and their wives. Many will cross the bay for the affair. Some of those who will be guests include Mr. and Mrs. James Moffitt, Mr. and Mrs. William Wellman, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Easton, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Austin, and many more.

In honor of Miss Mary Kennedy and Miss Lorene Kinney, Miss Flora Edwards will entertain May 26 at bridge at her home.

Another smart affair will be the bridge which Miss Katherine Armstrong will give May 27, the guests of honor to be Miss Mary Kennedy and Miss Dorothy Dwing, of Seattle, who is visiting in the bay region. Miss Kennedy is the fiancée of Richard Hutchinson of Shanghai.

Mrs. Harold Jean Hare and Miss Laura Miller will share the honors at a bridge which Mrs. Jack O'Neil will give at her home the afternoon of May 24.

PETE TO BE HELD IN HUME GARDENS. All day tomorrow from early morning until sunset the gardens of the C. E. Hume home at 4320 Piedmont avenue will be thronged with pleasure seekers, all in the interest of the Baby Hospital Association. It is to be the annual May fete of the Junior Auxiliary when the Little Queen of the May, Vestal Ayres, will be crowned in the presence of her court. There will be the May dances, a procession, ponies, races and games of every kind for the diversion of the kiddies.

At each booth presided over by the leafs there will be specialties. Mimosa Leaf, comprising many of the high school girls who are experts in the cuisine, have made cakes and cookies that have won a wide reputation in seasons past, the branch being among the first to sell out.

Cat Leaf will have home-made candies and Holly Leaf hot dogs. Linden Leaf branch is to be the center of attraction for fortune-telling, games and grabs. Manzanita will have Eskimo pies, candies and dolls and Maple Leaf the May Pole with a vaudeville show their specialty. Redwood will serve chocolate, coffee and cakes and Rose Leaf the soft drinks. ## Here's Information Campers Will Need

By CAPTAIN FRANK WINCH.

Every camper or huntsman should know how to outfit, how to select and make a camp, how to wield the ax, make proper fires, how to cook, wash, mend and how to travel without losing his course, and what to do when he has lost it; how to trail, hunt, fish, shoot, dress game, and how to extemporize such makeshifts as may be needed in wilderness faring. Then is he truly a woodsman, sure to do promptly the right thing at the right time, no matter what happens. The hardest problem in outfitting is what to take, or it might be better said what NOT to take. Go light. In these two words lies the secret of tripping it as if it were a feather.

While it will be the aim in these notes to supply the outdoorsman with many useful hints, space prevents the amplification that the subject deserves. These hints are for the gleanings from experienced outdoorsmen; they have stood the acid test of trial. These lines are for the chap who carries his pack on his back.

WHAT TO TAKE.

Hand ax—Should have a handle about seventeen inches long, with blade the temper and edge of a good ax. The head with sheath to weigh about one pound and ten ounces.

Sheath knife—Should be small and light. Blade about six inches. The best is one too good. One fashioned out of a file is excellent.

Pocket knife—Regular jack knife, one large blade and two small ones. Large blade equal to whittling stick.

ory. One of the small blades to be ground very thin and kept clean for use in any surgical emergency.

Compass—To have hinged cover with illuminated dial for day or night use. Dial to be about one and three-quarter inches in diameter. Believe in your compass.

Watch—A cheap one for day and night use. This can be rendered waterproof in the following manner: Take a piece of rubber dental gum eight inches square, put the watch in the center and bring the rubber together at the stem, tying the puckered up rubber with a bit of waxed string. To see the time stretch the rubber and the hands will show clearly. For a chain use a bit of rawhide string.

Whistle—The United States army officer's whistle is about the best. Fasten to buttonhole with a rawhide string.

Maps—Topographic survey maps showing roads, trails, cities, towns, waterways, contours and mountains of almost any location in the United States can be secured by writing to the Director of U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C. Include ten cents for each map of the section that you wish. Maps should be mounted on squares of heavy paper.

Match box—There are many varieties on the market. Here is a home-made one that will answer every purpose: Secure a small flat tobacco box, fill with matches and bind the lid with a piece of narrow strip of surgical adhesive tape. Use contents for emergency only.

Matches—Waterproof and carry loose in the pocket. Waterproof as follows: Dip the matches half length in shellac varnish thinned with alcohol to the consistency of heavy cream. Lay matches separately on a piece of newspaper to dry. Matches so treated can be left in water for a long time without spoiling.

Flashlight—A flashlight should be in every kit. Get flashlight with round edges, it will not wear holes in the pocket. Test battery before starting.

Eye glasses—If you wear them take an extra pair. In snow time when the sun is bright use dark glasses or smear the face with charcoal to prevent snow blindness.

Field glasses—Should be of good definition and wide field of view. Prism binoculars of moderate power about six diameters. Opera glasses will do very well for study.

Toilet articles—Small piece of soap that lathers freely in any water, two small towels, a piece of bright tin or polished steel for mirror. Wrap soap in oiled silk bag. Tooth brush.

Repair kit—Mill file, six inches long, small whetstone, pliers, twine, needles, thread and a few buttons.

First aid kit—Get small tobacco box, flat with round edges, boil it in two waters and dry thoroughly. Then pack as follows: Dressing for small cuts and a packet for finger dressings. A few ampules of three and one-half per cent tincture of iodine in wooden containers. Put one large dressing and a couple of smaller ones in the tin box. Carry this box in your pocket. For the medical kit, secure a fair-sized tin box and fill as follows: A new safety razor blade, to be used as a lance; fill some large capsules with tablets of cascara, intestinal antiseptic, aspirin, potassium permanganate, strychnine, baking soda. A small bottle of colloidum. Fill vacant space with absorbent cotton and seal edges of box with tape.

BURGLAR KNOCKED OUT. BRUSSELS, May 12.—Owing to numerous burglaries, Leon Bourgette electrified the safe in his jewelry shop. A burglar attempted to rob the safe and was knocked unconscious.

ROTARIANS NAME COMMITTEES FOR NEW YEAR'S WORK

President Eaglesome Says There Will Be No Radical Changes.

Committees were formed and plans for the activities of the coming year were outlined by the newly elected president of the Rotary Club, Thomas C. Eaglesome, at the meeting of the organization in the Hotel Oakland yesterday.

Eaglesome told the Rotarians that he plans to continue the work accomplished during the past year without radical departure from the system inaugurated by past presidents. He said that all luncheons would conclude promptly at 1:30. The new committee chairman are: John A. M. Sexton, educational committee; J. Maxwell Taft, entertainment committee; George A. Hughes, publicity committee; Leo H. Newbert, boys' committee; Joseph N. Burroughs, sick committee; George Cummings, music committee.

Eaglesome publicly thanked The TRIBUNE for its co-operation in the publicity of the club's activities and for the offer to turn over to the club as a record all motion pictures taken by The TRIBUNE staff motion picture photographer of Rotary events.

Brief announcements were made by J. Cal Ewing, singing support for the Salvation Army drive for $70,000 to finish payment of the $163,000 indemnity bond, and by Charles Downey on the "Save the Surface-Save All" campaign. There was no principal speaker at the luncheon.

"TIZ" FOR ACHING SORE, TIRED FEET

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, blisters-tortured feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "TIZ" bath. When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "TIZ". It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions. There's nothing like "TIZ". It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture. A few cents buys a box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet feel; how comfortable your shoes feel.—Advertisement.

Maria de Angelis, the paramour of Mesones, was declared guilty of complicity in the crime and sentenced to ten years and three months' imprisonment. Lieutenant Barbero, also a defendant, was acquitted.

STARLIGHT

by Idaho McGilone Gibson

Virginia Fairfax, daughter of the first family of Virginia, rebels against the usual rule of her grandfather and, lured by filmland, runs away to become a motion picture actress. Arriving in Los Angeles, she meets Gloria Summers, who is in the movies. They become warm friends. They meet Herbert Richardson, a wealthy young man who has been interested in Gloria. Gloria accepts, for herself and Virginia, Herbert Richardson's invitation to a party. His and

MEMORIES.

It was a tiny apartment that I entered—just one room with the usual California in-a-door bed, a small bath and kitchenette in which you could just turn around. But just having it for my very own took away my feeling of loneliness.

My trunks and boxes were in one corner, and Herb, with great thoughtfulness, had attached Rita's card to a great sheet of roses. There were so many that I could find no house that would hold them, but I nuzzled around among the remains of numerous sets of dishes and found a blue water pitcher that some former tenant had left. The roses were beautiful to behold in it and they gave a homey, comfortable look to the meager furnishings. I took off my hat and sat down in the one arm chair the room contained and reread my letter from Eddie.

My heart grew all soft and warm as I thought of his chivalrous, loving kisses and the ghost of which was still haunting my lips—the kiss he had put upon my lips that night so long ago, so very long that it seemed as though it were a different incarnation.

What were my loved ones all doing back there in the sleepy old Virginia village? What was Naomi doing? Was she still adding to her hope chest?

With this thought there came a little catch of my breath. I, too, had started a hope chest and in it I had placed something from out my heart—something of that unworldly kind that the people back home would call innocence.

Aunt Virginia, particularly, would bewail the laying of worldly wisdom in the chest of ambition. She would know that when I should open that little cedar chest, again, innocence would be found. It's place would have been usurped by hard, bitter experience.

This, to Aunt Virginia, was one of life's supreme tragedies. But I had already learned from Gloria that innocence was only ignorance. "Why," she philosophized in her enthusiastic way, "in olden times, Virginia, they called a child whose heart was a blank, an innocent. One of the things that you and I

Virginia plead that they must leave early. News came of the serious illness of Kitty Dalton—the direct result of the wild party. Tommy Warner came with the news that Gloria and Herb Richardson were to be married that night. To prevent a scandal, Gloria counteracted to take Kitty blind town and care for her till she recovers. Herbert invites Virginia out to dinner. There they see Theodore Stratton, the great movie star. She sits settled in her new apartment and misses Gloria, her old roommate.

who have to beat the world at its own game, must always keep in mind, Virginia, is that innocence does not necessarily mean purity. Or to put it another way, purity does not mean innocence of the knowledge of wrong-doing. You can have knowledge and still be unstained and you can be innocent of wrong-doing and yet the world will put the scarlet letter upon your breast.

With all these thoughts I was growing melancholy and introspective. Then I realized that I was hungry. Just plain hungry. It was not my soul that was troubling me with its pangs, but my stomach.

"Taking up my hat, I hurried down to the corner where hung the sign of a Chinese restaurant. It was almost the first time I had ever entered a restaurant or public eating place alone, outside of the hotel where I was stopping.

My heart beat ridiculously fast. I was about to run away when a voice came floating through the doorway. Figuratively I clutched it like a drowning man, for the crowded tables before me had seemed waves of hungry humanity ready to swallow me up. The familiar tones were saying:

"Well, well, Virginia! Look who's here!" Through the throng I discovered Jack Thompson beckoning.

It was good to see a friend and I hastened to his table.

"May I eat with you, Jack?" I asked, sure of the answer.

"Why ask foolish questions, girl?" smiled Jack. "You can eat with me but unfortunately not on me, Virginia, for I'm flat. This meal, and tomorrow's breakfast, and financially I am a total wreck."

"Oh, Jack, let me lend you some money," and I opened my purse impulsively.

"No, no, I don't need it. Keep it," he said, and I closed my purse. "I'll be a good doctor."

until the situation gets serious, Virginia. I am going to save you until I am really broke good and hard. And then, kind friend, look out!" And Jack beamed his happy-go-lucky smile.

"Jack, you don't really mean what you say about being broke, do you?"

For answer he put his hand in his pocket and pulled out a few thin dimes. "That, Virginia dear, is my net capital worth," he said, imitating the ponderous, tones and manner of a plutocrat. The matter seemed to me too serious for levity and I urged:

"You had better let me lend you money. What are you going to do for lunch tomorrow? Even with work you won't get your check until evening. You can't cash your check before you get it."

"Oh, I'll burn my lunch from somebody who has hummed his lunch from me when things were reversed."

"Aren't you afraid?" What if something would happen that you would not work tomorrow?"

"But I have got a job for tomorrow, Virginia. If I get out there they will have to pay me. Anyway, something would turn up. I am not worried," and Jack smiled easily. Tomorrow—A Strange Movie Type. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

Should a Woman Tell?
by Hazel DeVoe

Hathorne Emery, after battling with herself for several days, decides to marry Dan Merrill without telling him that she has been in love with another man. She discovers that Dan is very narrow in his ideas about women, and that he is looking to her to exert an influence over Julie, his little butterfly sister. Julie confesses to Hathorne that she has fallen in love with a man much older than herself, and much to Hathorne's distress tells her mother that Hathorne introduced the two.

CHAPTER XVII Out of the Past.

I HAVE seen him! Even now in the safety of my own room that terrible feeling of nausea that even over me in the restaurant is with me. My hands are like ice and my knees tremble so that I can hardly stand.

I was with him last night. I was so happy. I had managed to chase away my foolish fears of the past days concerning Julie, and Dan had been so very wonderful to me. An extraordinary business deal that he had put through unexpectedly put him in the mood to celebrate, and we had planned a wonderful evening.

We went to my favorite hotel to dinner, and I wore a new gown. No woman who is not in love with her husband can appreciate what I felt when I met Dan's eyes across the table. There was a look of proud possession in them as he looked at me and deliberately in a way I know rouses him quickly I flirted with him.

That sudden light that I know so well leaped into his eyes, and he leaped quickly toward me. "Hathorne, my dear," he said, and his voice was not quite steady. I laughed at him and then blushed because of my very daring. And we were foolish and merry and very much in love. I looked up and found myself gazing straight into the eyes of Cranford Blake.

I felt my smile grow mechanical as my features stiffened. The look in my eyes froze to horror. I knew a minute of wild panic when I seemed to have no control over myself. I wanted to stamp up and make my way out of the dining room. I couldn't even hear the voices around me for the ringing in my ears, and it seemed as though I could never look away.

All this takes a long time to tell, but it must have been only a minute that passed before I gained some control over my features. Terrified, I looked at Dan, but he was eating a piece of celery and apparently had noticed nothing. I dropped my eyes to my plate and fought hard to stop the trembling that had seized me. But, although I did not look up, I knew that Cranford was looking at me. I could feel his eyes fixed on my face, and it made me horribly conscious of my own face. I thought I must finish dinner and leave the place, but we had not even been served.

I thought of the time that must elapse before I could go, and although I did not want to spoil Dan's enjoyment I felt I must make some excuse. I must plead faintness, anything that would serve as an excuse.

These thoughts lasted for only a moment, and then my fighting blood began to come to the surface. After all, why should I usually give Cranford Blake the idea that he had any power to make me feel one way or another? There was no logical excuse for this. I must not give way like this simply because I had seen him again.

The more I thought about it, the more intense was the light of the whole thing. I wondered if he had noticed my sudden terror, but even if he had, he would put it down to a natural surprise, seeing him after so long a time.

I forced myself to be gay and light-hearted and to talk and laugh with Dan, but the spontaneity of the earlier part of the evening was gone. I was conscious of Cranford's eyes fixed on my face, and once when I stole a glance in that direction I caught his look. That was a strange expression on his face, and again my heart leaped with fear. What was he thinking of? His face had worn that same expression in the old days, when he had made up his mind to get something he had set his heart on possessing.

In the following account of a piratical transaction are concealed eleven geographical names. There are nine vehement mutineers conspiring to capture their ship. "A risky piece of business," muttered the mate to his pilot. "It makes this part an easy matter, but the best plan is to bind the captain during his noon nap lest he wake up. He is usually up, so hand over the sword over the sofa, then secure the revolver on a shelf by his head. From every passenger we can then exact a ransom."

PSYCHO-ANALYSIS

by ANDRE TRIDON

WOMAN WHO SLEPT THIRTY-TWO YEARS

IN 1908 the medical world was aroused by a report of the most strange case of sleeping sickness of record. A woman who was a native of a small Swedish town, in 1861, at the age of 11, just at the time she was entering puberty, she one day complained of a violent headache, went to bed and was bed-ridden till she reached the age of 46.

She would sleep continually day and night, waking up for a short while in the evening, leaving the bed to get a glass of milk, her only food, and then returning to her stuporous condition for another twenty-four hours. She would at the time of her daily awakenings speak a few mumbled words, but she did not seem to take any distinct notice of her environment.

When her mother died in 1907, she woke up and wept as long as the corpse was in the house. After the funeral she resumed her stuporous condition. Three years later in April, 1908, she left her bed in the morning, walked around the house asking everybody, "Where is mamma?" It must be noticed that her awakening coincided with a physical change common at that age (46) after which women can no longer entertain any hope of motherhood.

Here we behold a woman who at the threshold of womanhood, for some reason which her family physician neglected to inquire into, became unconscious to remain a child. Her excessive milk diet during those thirty-two years points to the infantile turn of her mind. Finally when she knew that she could no longer be a woman and would not have to fulfill the biological duties of a woman, she came back to life. Her first question, however, was that which a child would have asked: "Where is mamma?" Her sleeping sickness was simply a nervous expedient to avoid leading the life of an adult and to remain in the safe and comfortable state of infancy, free from care and duties.

Child's History of the HUMAN RACE

by Ramon Cossman

WE CAN understand why men should have killed wild animals with spears and arrows, but why did they ever begin to quarrel among themselves and kill each other?

It was because they did not know any better. When did fighting first break out between men? Although we do not know for sure, it probably did not happen until the close of the Stone Age.

The reasons for this belief are these: Skeletons of Stone Age men are found in groups of five or six. Battles between tribes would have many more skeletons in many places.

Bones of persons who lived in the Stone Age almost never have marks which might have been made by spears or arrows. Paintings and engravings on the walls of caves show men shooting arrows or hurling spears at animals, but never at each other. These facts lead to the thought:

Stews and hearty dinner pies are not confined to winter use, as there are many spring specialties of dried mushrooms, let them stand a few minutes, then drain, saving the water, and chop them. Mince an onion, and a little parsley fine. Mix all the ingredients and fry them in a quarter cupful of olive oil. Place in layers, with the noodles, in a buttered baking-dish. Add the mushroom water to the oil left in the pan, season and thicken it with cornstarch, and turn the mixture over the contents of the baking-dish, then bake them for a half hour.

Armenian Stew or Halubula. Take two pounds of fresh spring lamb, cut it into small pieces and put them into a stewpan with a small can of tomatoes, salt, pepper and a half-teaspoonful of sugar. Stew gently until tender. Wash and cut off the stems and tips of a pound of fresh mushrooms, cut in strips, and boil in salted water until it is tender, then pour into the stew. Thicken the stew with a little butter and flour rubbed together, strain the mixture over the stew, and serve in small pieces may be used instead of the lamb. The rack of the fowl may be used for chicken broth.

Canadain Roll. Make a good biscuit crust and roll it on a floured board about a half inch thick. Mince cold meat enough to make one and a half cupsful, adding a chopped onion, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, a teaspoonful of mixed chives, pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of sugar, a salt-spoonful of curry powder, and enough ground brown gravy to moisten the mass. Spread the mixture on the crust, cover the top with the ends, put the roll into a floured cloth, and tie it, leaving room for the roll to swell. Plunge into boiling water and boil for two hours. Serve it with a hot dish with brown gravy. Baked potatoes and boiled rice go with the roll.

Chinese Baked Noodles. Take a half-pound of Chinese noodles and drop a few at a time into boiling water. Skim them out in three minutes and drain them, then cut them into long pieces. Mince together a quarter pound of that most of the life of mankind had not been stained by human warfare. On the other hand, it seems that groups of men in Europe did fight with each other. One thing that leads to this belief is the rather sudden vanishing from Spain and France of the tribes which made so many cave paintings. Other tribes, perhaps from Asia, may have come in and killed the natives.

Fighting between men probably arose from the same cause as often leads dogs to fight each other—a contest over food. The Stone Age men, however, did not fight over food. They fought over bones, early humans doubtless fought over the ownership of slain animals.

Later they fought over what they should have the right to hunt game in certain forests and who should own the caves and the natives.

Little Stones of Mystery will be our subject tomorrow.

Uncle Wiggily
"Oh, who are you, sweet bird sinner?"
UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE MOCKING BIRD.
"Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggily! Wait a minute!" called Nurse Jane. "The Fuzzy Fox is on the loose, and he's hopping down the front steps of his hollow stump bungalow." "What's the matter now?" asked Mr. Longears, stopping long enough to let his pink nose twinkle. "Has the Fuzzy Fox telephoned to ask me to meet him in the woods, or does the Wiggily Wolf want me to send my ears over to his den to be nibbled?" "Neither one of those, thank goodness," laughed the musical lady housekeeper. "No one is at the telephone. But here is a fresh loaf of bread I just baked for Grandpa Goosey. Gander. Would you mind taking it to him as you go adventuring, just happy to take your loaf of bread to Grandpa Goosey?" said Uncle Wiggily with a low and polite bow. "I will be very glad to get it. As for an adventure, I may happen to find one, and then, again, I may not."

But Uncle Wiggily did, and he's going to tell you about it. Nurse Jane wrapped the fresh loaf of bread in a clean napkin of white bird bark, and she gave the little bundle to Uncle Wiggily. The bunny gentleman tucked the loaf under his paw and hopped over the fields and through the woods. As he was nearing Grandpa Goosey's house he changed the loaf of bread from under his paw to under his right paw, and, as he did so, he noticed many loose crumbs in the birch bark napkin.

"But I guess Grandpa Goosey can eat the bread crumbs as well as the whole loaf," thought the bunny. He hopped about again when, all of a sudden he heard a soft voice saying: "Oh, how hungry I am. I think I came up from my warm Southland a little too soon, for there isn't much to eat around here. Oh, what shall I do?"

Uncle Wiggily stood still for a moment and thought. The voice was a new one, he was sure it was not that of the Wolf or Fox. Still the bunny knew he had better be careful. He peered through the bushes and sitting on the low branch of a tree not far away, he saw a bird, rather faded brown in color. And as the bunny looked the bird sang a sweet, throaty, low note. The bunny gentleman felt as though he might be in the Woodland Church.

"Oh, who are you, sweet bird sinner?" asked the bunny. "I am called the mocking bird," was the answer. They said can imitate or mimic the song of almost any bird. Would you like to hear me?"

"Indeed, I would," answered Uncle Wiggily. "But I heard you say you were hungry, and perhaps you cannot sing when you need something to eat."

"I would be glad of a meal," chirped the mocking bird, "but where shall I find one?" "Here!" quickly answered the rabbit gentleman. He showed the bread crumbs from the birch bark napkin, and the mocking bird, flying down, picked up a crumb and ate it. "I am no longer hungry."

"Now I shall imitate a robin," he said, and he sang a cheerful, chirping note, just as well as a Mr. Red Breast himself could have done it. Then the bird imitated a song sparrow and other birds, giving Uncle Wiggily a most beautiful concert.

"How could I stay and listen to you all day," said the bunny, as he thanked the bird, "but I must hop on with this bread to Grandpa Goosey."

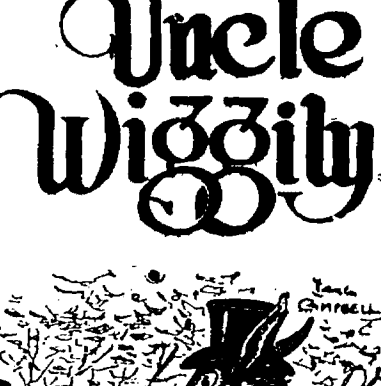

It was when Uncle Wiggily was coming back, having left the loaf of bread, that the real adventure happened to him. The bunny was hopping along when, all of a sudden, he was snatched out from behind a bush and gripped. "Now I am going to nibble your ears."

"Oh, please don't!" begged Uncle Wiggily. "If you will only let me alone I will give you a good meal." "Nonsense! I don't like bread!" howled the fox. "He was just going to jump up and nibble the bunny's ears when, all of a sudden, there sounded through the woods the cry of: 'New! New! Meow!'"

"Oh, there's a big tom cat coming and he'll scratch me!" howled the fox. "Oh, I'm so afraid of scratchy cats as never was. I'll nibble your ears some other day, Uncle Wiggily!" and away ran the fox, not hurting the bunny at all. I wonder what cat that was? I said the bunny out loud, when he knew he was safe.

"No cat," answered the mocking bird, flying down out of a tree. "I saw your danger and wanted to help you. And, as I can imitate almost any bird, I just imitated the cat bird and drove the fox away."

"You thank me?" asked the bunny. "I saw your danger and wanted to help you. And, as I can imitate almost any bird, I just imitated the cat bird and drove the fox away."

ENGLISH BRIDE OF ARAB REFUSES TO RETURN TO HOME

London Chorus Girl Finds a Real Romance in Life With "Sheik."

ALGIERS, May 12.—To be the English wife of an Arab, he ever so handsome and Europeanized, is not always the romantic life that young girls might suppose it to be, according to Mrs. Tayeb Ben Ahmed, former English chorus girl. And it is not because your husband is less wonderful than you had thought, but because the world in general will insist on prying into your affairs that romance dims occasionally.

Mr. and Mrs. Tayeb Ben Ahmed live in Biskra, Algeria, right beside the beautiful Garden of Allah. She is one of those women who give through their eyes unconsciously giving thrills to the public and wondering afterward why people keep a watchful eye turned in her direction. When the first production of "The Garden of Allah" was given in London a very discerning producer chose her for the chorus. Thereafter he imported a bit of local color straight from the Garden of Allah—Tayeb Ben Ahmed, one of the handsomest guides of Biskra, a true Arabian, of swarthy complexion and proud bearing. With him came as many camels as are necessary to make a stage desert-camp, all of which Tayeb himself safely transported to London.

Once each night after arriving he led the camels across a London stage, singing "Allah, Allah, Allah" three times in a monotone so marvelously that every chorus girl was entranced. His words were few, but his costume and the way he walked were "just grand."

TOOK CHORUS GIRL HOME.
After many nights of success for the play Tayeb returned to his home in Biskra, a much more versatile guide, taking with him the lovely English chorus girl, with red

Prayer for Baby Girl Heard After Two Generations

(By International News Service) CAPE MAY, N. J., May 12.—The gospel of wait and pray has finally rewarded the Rest family of West Cape May. For two generations the family has been hoping and praying that a girl be born into the family. The stork hearkened to their patient yearning and rewarded Mrs. Edward Rest with a baby girl. A monster reunion and celebration is being planned when the baby is christened. And the inevitable war arises as to whether if the baby had been a boy would have been named Tommy Rest.

cheeks and black eyes and hair. In Biskra the Arabs looked upon her not a little askance, for she arrived quite unveiled and even walked out on the street alone, which no Arab woman would ever do. Besides, it was a well-known fact that Tayeb had been married once to an Arab woman, and whereas an Arab may have as many wives as he chooses, yet it is his first wife who really matters to him. However, the Arabs refused to make comments. What Allah has decreed so let it be, they said.

It was the English tourists who were most concerned about Mrs. Ben Ahmed's welfare. Almost immediately they began inquiring about her state of happiness, and not a few of them attempted vainly to see her and persuade her that she must return to England to be happy.

BABY IS BORN.
Just when everyone had almost forgotten about her she appeared, wheeling a baby carriage. In her courtyard, Mrs. Tayeb, who had in the meantime set up a truly modern business as guide, rejoiced in telling every tourist about his new son, Mohammed Ben Ahmed, called "Bibi" for short.

Almost two years have passed since Mr. and Mrs. Tayeb Ben Ahmed went to Biskra, to live. Their white house, which is near the center of town, bears large bill posters announcing that excursions into the desert will be arranged by Tayeb, who will also provide for shooting of wild goats and the gazelle and will rent carriages, horses, camels and mules at moderate prices.

Occasionally one catches a glimpse of Mrs. Ben Ahmed, who appears in Arabian slippers of embroidered red leather, and wearing a soft European frock. As for Tayeb, he has combined his Oriental costume with the European one effectively and more than once has been seen wheeling the baby carriage as only a well-trained European or American husband would do.

It is only recently that the Arab wife of Tayeb has reappeared and joined the household of Ben Ahmed, but still Mrs. Ben Ahmed declares that she is happy though not in England, that she will remain in Biskra forever, and that no movie director can entice her back to the Anglo-Saxons.

Here's Something New Under Sun
SEATTLE, Wash., May 12.—This radio kiss has been discovered by W. K. Romans, of this city, and he says "it's the greatest of indoor sports."

Romans made his discovery quite by accident and he claims no glory for the "invention." He and Mrs. Romans were listening to a radio broadcasting on two sets of ear phones in their home when one terminal of each of the phones became dislodged. Romans' hand came in contact with that of his wife and the circuit became instantly reestablished.

Realizing what had happened Romans reached over and kissed his wife. The concert which had been temporarily discontinued for the couple resumed immediately with the completion of the circuit through the contact of the lips.

India Women Adept In Civilized Crime

BOMBAY, May 12.—Two Bengali women who had learned telegraphy worked a swindle near Kanchnapur which netted them more than $20,000 before they were caught. From an improvised telegraph station they sent out bogus money orders and confirmed these by wire. They operated undisturbed until discovery on a tour of inspection discovered the wires had been tapped.

REFORMED CROOK TELLS HOW KING AIDED ONE 'JOB'

English Ruler, Then Duke, Once 'Unknowingly Aided' With Theft.

(By International News Service) PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., May 12.—"No matter how much a crook makes his job very little of the loot or cash because there's the crooked lawyer who bleeds you white, the fake bondsman, the politician and a score of lesser fry."

Thus spoke Robert W. ("Razor") Fenton, who has served eight and a half years behind prison walls. He has reformed and now is telling the world that there's nothing in the crook game in the end.

Between "Jobs" Fenton used to loaf in this town in a quiet way when the police of New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh and a lot of other cities were hot on his trail.

"Razor" Fenton's specialty was picking pockets, though he often engaged in other alleged nefarious activities. He estimated that during his "crook" career he had cleaned up more than $300,000. His biggest single job netted him $20,000 and his second-best job $10,000. The present King of England helped him, unconsciously, to make the $10,000 touch.

"The present King of England unknowingly aided me in robbing a man of $10,000," said Fenton. "When he was a Duke, in 1901, he visited Canada. The papers were full of stories about the great reception planned for him. In Chicago we were also planning to receive him. I went to Quebec to get a line on things. When we reached Montreal we decided to visit one of the banks, with the idea of selecting a victim. It didn't take us long to pick a man who we knew had a considerable sum of money on him. We took up the trail. A reception for the Duke was scheduled that day. While he went to his carriage this man somehow got an opportunity to speak to him, and while they were conversing I robbed him of $10,000. It was so easy it was a shame to do it. But in spite of the size of the haul it profited me nothing in the end."

"But you say, 'what did you do with all the money?'" "I'll tell you. To begin with, I had the leeches to feed. The first was the crooked lawyer. He doesn't ask you how, or when, or where you got the money. All he wants to know is that you have it, and then he tries to get as much out of you as he can."

"Then I had to square myself with the 'fixer'—the man who has a pull with the police and the courts."

"There was the bondsman to pay off the fellow who puts up a piece of worthless property he wants to get rid of and which he offers the court as security for a prisoner's appearance when the trial comes up. The professional bondsman is a general fellow to him. He will let you escape with your shirt, providing it's well worn and of no further use."

"Then there was the great underworld to help support—the saloon-keepers, the ginmills, the cabarets. 'What was worse, I paid twice over for that deal. My brother, falsely identified as myself, was sent to prison for a term, and eighteen months later I was brought back and did time on the same count."

"The man who steals is robbed of the best things he has. If you count only the money, a man who has been in a legitimate business for twenty years would have something to show for it if he had made the money in the length of time I did. After being in the game for twenty years, I didn't have a thing to show for it. I started out in the world with a good character, with friends, with every chance to make good. I finished the game broke and broke in the worst possible manner."

"Does stealing pay?" "It is the best game that I know of to keep out of."

Here Is Certain Cure for Short Dress Wearing

(By International News Service) SISTERVILLE, W. Va., May 12.—The mystery why rolled topped stockings only show when maidens of Sisterville sit down has just been discovered.

A disease epidemic went the rounds here several months ago—just when decollete evening gowns were much the thing. Vaccination followed and everybody was vaccinated.

Rather than have a mark on their pretty arms, the girls and young women submitted to the treatment elected another part of their anatomy where the scar could not be seen.

Decollete gowns are still in vogue here, but roll-top hose and very short dresses never will be. The girls were vaccinated on their knees.

LONDON WOMEN 'FAG' FIENDS, IS LATEST REPORT

Court Statistics Furnish Impetus to Anti-Tobacco Drive in England.

LONDON, May 12.—The anti-cigarette campaign in England has received a big impetus through an admission in the courts that one hundred cigarettes a week is the average consumption of women in ordinary good social position.

But the best authorities state that this is an underestimate. Cigarette manufacturers say that great numbers of women smoke two and three times this amount.

"We have a large number of women on our books who have placed regular orders for a supply of three hundred a week," states one of the best-known firms of tobacco dealers in London. "But the ordinary woman smokes at least one hundred weekly."

"Then we have one hundred and fifty to two hundred and fifty women to whom we regularly supply cigars. But the average order is twenty a week. For a woman to smoke three or four cigars daily is nothing at the present time."

In addition to these, we have between two hundred and three hundred women who are confirmed pipe smokers. Their average consumption works out at a half pound a month. For these we have invented a special pipe, with a stem that can be lengthened.

"Pipes are usually smoked in the country, or when the smokers are at home reading. Women mostly prefer the finest tobacco, but we have lately had a big demand for the coarser blends. Shell brands are the pipes mainly in request."

"British women no longer ask for scented cigarettes, and the Russian variety has entirely gone out of favor. But they all like mild tobacco and delicate aroma. Moreover, we have to take special precaution that teeth do not get discolored.

"When a woman first comes to us we ask her whether her sense of taste or smell is the more acute. Some tobacco we have to blend. Then we have to blend accordingly. Solely for smell."

"We have three thousand and four hundred different blends on our books. Fifty per cent of these are for women."

Muskrat Wins Battle With Police Officer
MANCHESTER, N. H., May 12.—Officer Henry B. Leavitt, of the local police force, received severe bites in the legs and about the hands in a battle with a huge muskrat, which attacked and bit Mrs. Joseph S. Debski as she was walking along the streets of this city with her husband.

Mrs. Debski's screams attracted the patrolman, who rushed to her assistance and succeeded in killing the animal with his night stick. Both Leavitt and Mrs. Debski were treated by physicians, and their wounds were cauterized to prevent poisoning.

Bird Steals Ride on Fast Passenger Train

MOBERLY, Mo., May 12.—A wash passenger train No. 28, between Kansas City and St. Louis, has the reputation of never stopping for anything, but a few nights ago as Engineer Charles Beck was racing the train through Clifton Hill a passenger "flipped" the train and rode on into Moberly in a cab of the engine.

The passenger was a quail, which evidently, aroused and attracted by the headlight, flew in through the window of the cab. The bird struck Engineer Beck in the face with a quilling force and fell bewildered to the seat beside him.

You Should Be the Same

A LARGE number of women's ailments are not surgical ones. Serious displacements or radical changes have not yet taken place.

A tiny part in a fine clock may become loose and cause the clock to gain or lose. If not attended to in time, the part may fall from its place and cause serious trouble. So it is with women's ailments, they start from simple causes; but if allowed to continue, produce serious conditions.

When the warning symptoms are first noted, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present troublesome ailment, and to prevent the development of serious trouble.

Portland, Ind.—"I was troubled with irregularity and constipation and would often have to lie down because of pains. One Sunday my aunt was visiting us and she said her girls took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got well, so mother said she guessed she would let me try it. It is doing me good and I praise it highly. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial."—STELLA NEWTON, R. R. No. 3, Portland, Ind.

Baltimore, Md.—"For several months I suffered with severe backache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pains in my back. I found your book at home and after reading it began at once to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. ## RECOGNITION OF PROPERTY RIGHTS, SOVIET PROPOSAL

All Russian Central Committee Seeks to Pave Way For Trade.

MOSCOW, May 12.—(By the Associated Press).—Legalized recognition of private property rights in money, industrial and agriculture products and other personal property and to a certain extent in real estate, is proposed in decrees which the soviet government prepared for presentation before the all-Russian central executive committee for passage at its opening session today.

The committee, which in effect is the Russian Parliament, is thus asked to make laws enabling foreign capital to work hand in hand with Soviet Russia and also to pass another decree giving peasants prolonged tenure of land which they now hold, as well as the right to lease land under certain circumstances.

RECOGNIZES PROPERTY.
The decree recognizing private property, as drafted by the commissariat of justice, provides that foreigners outside of Russia shall be given the rights of protection of their property only on condition that Russians are granted the same rights abroad, but foreigners within Russia who legally arrange for the right to do business would be granted the same rights as Russian citizens.

The right to own buildings is limited by the decree to small structures. The decree also would legalize the regular arrangements of commercial agreements, providing for the usual annulment of such arrangements in case of frauds or other misrepresentation.

SEEK COLLABORATION.
The decree purposes to make possible the collaboration of Soviet Russia with the capitalists of Europe and America, says the Economic Life.

"It is not a more demonstration for the present Genoa conference which is falling through. Regarding the proposed law governing peasants holdings, the Economic Life says:

"We must admit that this law is far from our ideals. It is a step backward in the sense that it consolidates the small holdings of peasants, but it will help them to unite, mutual work and give a possibility of combating economic retrogression."

National Guard Moves Into New Armory And All Oakland Assists in House Warming

MAN POSES AS A DESERTER TO GET NAVY POST

CHICAGO, May 12.—David Wolman liked the Navy so well that he even consented to pose as a deserter to get back in it after being honorably discharged back in May, 1921.

Dave is still in the navy, with reservations. Finding the life of a landlubber distasteful, especially with jobs scarce, the one-time jolly sailor had a friend "capture him" as Mike McCarthy, deserter, and collected a $50 reward.

In his ingenious way Dave got just what he wanted—a two-year sentence in the brig after his court-martial in January. Last month the sailor changed his mind about the succulence of prison fare and wrote the Secretary of the Navy about the deception.

Everything was penches for Dave. U. S. Commissioner Mason ordered his release from jail.

ARMY AND CIVIC DIGNITARIES AID AT DEDICATION

Parade Is the Most Colorful Part of Big Military Night Celebration.

"Hail, Hail, the gang's all here!" Played by a military band and chanted by about two thousand young men, this familiar air took on a new meaning last night.

It meant something more than a college jollification for it signified the conclusion of a dedicatory ceremony.

The National Guard moved into its new armory at Twenty-third and Grove streets last night and Oakland turned out to assist in the house warming.

The celebration started with a parade through the streets of the city. National guard units participated and were viewed by high dignitaries of the army and city officials.

At the head of the columns of marching men arrayed in the uniforms they wore in France and many bearing insignia of notable service, marched David P. Barrows, president of the University of California and colonel of the 159th regiment of National Guard.

On the reviewing stand in front of the city hall stood Adjutant General J. J. Borrer, representing Governor William D. Stephens, who was unable to attend; Colonel Robert Noble, Colonel L. Holbrook, Colonel R. E. Mittlestadt, Lieutenant Colonel Roger S. Fitch, Majors J. Alexander, P. Rogers and W. E. McCaughey, and Mayor John L. Davis and Commissioner Albert E. Carter.

POLICE HEAD PARADE.
Commissioner Frank Colbourn rode in the police automobile with Chief of Police James P. Dwyer at the head of the platoon of police in charge of Captain Frank Lynch, and Commissioner William Baeus, stood with the crowd at the base of the reviewing stand.

Throughout the line of march the young national guardsmen were cheered by throngs who lined the street from Eighth street to Fourteenth. At the reviewing stand grizzled veterans of many wars stood at attention while the younger generation passed with "eyes right."

In the parade were the service company, flower company, headquarters company, first and third battalions of the 159th Infantry, the San Francisco port command, Coast Artillery and band under the leadership of Major D. E. Hardy, the 49th Field Signal company under Captain E. V. Orr, and Batteries A, B, C and D of the First Battalion of the 143d Field Artillery in command of Major Harry Huber.

At the armory, the spacious new home of the national guardsmen, addresses of welcome, cheer and praise were made by the army officers with the principal address made by Colonel Barrows. General Borrer acted as chairman of the evening.

BIG THURONG ATTENDS.
The services started with a military piece by the band, under the direction of H. C. Payson, and while this was being played the members of the artillery division under Captain John Aubert Cook and John Fahy marched through the hall and group themselves around a field piece mounted near the speakers' stand. As this movement was effected the thousands who were jammed into the armory to witness the ceremonies broke into cheers.

Colonel Barrows spoke briefly on the purposes and hopes of the national guard and on the achievements of the organization. Several numbers were played by the band and a radio concert was given. After the addresses the visitors were taken through the building on a tour of inspection and then the band and the crowd adjourned to the song about the "gang" being present.

Man, 68, Completes High School Term

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., May 12.—Del Upton, 68, school teacher, Baptist preacher and prohibition stump speaker, will be graduated as an honor pupil from the Point Pleasant High school this year. He is probably the oldest student attending a school in West Virginia.

"A man is never too old to be a student," Upton says. "When he gets too old to learn he is not fit to live." Upton is the father of five children.

THE TROUBLE IS INTERNAL.

In their reply to the Allied group of powers at the Genoa economic conference the Russian Communist delegates take occasion to condemn the course which the United States government has followed with reference to the soviet authority at Moscow. They complain that the continued refusal of this government to accord recognition to soviet Russia has been one of the important factors against that economic rehabilitation in Russia which the Allied powers so much desire.

This is an old cry of the soviets. It is without any merit. The fact of recognition or non-recognition of communism as the established Russian government has no material relation to the state of Russia's economic life.

Secretary of State Hughes has several times stated the American policy toward soviet Russia. He has stated it in official communications to the soviet regime, and in public utterance specially designed for the information of all the delegates at the Genoa conference. His latest statement of this country's position was made on May 1st in a brief speech to representatives of the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom, which had just passed a resolution urging that the United States government give immediate recognition to the Moscow régime. There is nothing particularly new in this latest exposition of policy by Secretary Hughes, but inasmuch as it is addressed to the same sort of reasoning and complaint that actuates the Communist delegates at Genoa it holds a special interest.

Mr. Hughes told the women who called to see him that there is no disposition to interfere with the Russian people in working out their own destiny. There is no desire to interfere in their internal affairs. In the existing status there are no legal obstacles to trade with Russia. The obstacles that exist to trade with Russia are due to the situation in Russia which is dominated by those who control the political affairs of Russia.

This is a polite way of saying that the trouble with Russia today is not non-recognition by the United States of the soviet regime, but applied sovietism in Russia. No formal or official act which this or any other government might take which omitted to involve the gift of supplies and credit to Russia could have the slightest beneficial effect so long as the soviet order exists in its present form and extent of control.

To quote Mr. Hughes directly:

"Some time ago I pointed out the essential conditions for a return to productivity in Russia. That was not a formula; that was not an artificial conception; that was simply a statement of fact. Russia needs credit, but it is idle to expect credit unless there is a basis for credit. That basis for credit cannot be supplied from the outside. That basis for credit has got to be supplied inside of Russia.

"Political recognition follows the establishment of a sound basis for intercourse. Political recognition is dependent upon the existence of a government that is competent to discharge its international obligations. This whole matter is in the control of those who dominate the affairs of Russia. We are most desirous to do what we can to aid in Russia's recuperation, but they must establish the basis for such recuperation."

In the above is the secret of the whole trouble with Russia. There is an absence of government competent to discharge its international obligations. The most striking example of the truth of this statement is in the tactics employed by the Communist delegates at Genoa. Through them the soviet government at Moscow boldly asserts its refusal to acknowledge international obligations and have tried by every means and device to evade obligations which the Allied governments insist must be recognized.

Just before going to Genoa Mr. Lloyd George said in the House of Commons that the trouble in Central Europe was not the repatriation provisions of the Versailles Treaty, but that there was something to repair in Central Europe; there had been a holocaust of destruction and desolation by which the habitation and the implements of life of a large portion of the population of Western Europe had been wiped out. It was necessary, he said, to face the fact that repairs had to be made and that they involved a tremendous cost and amount of labor. It would answer no purpose to transfer the cost of the repairs from Germany, the country responsible for the loss, to the people of Belgium and France, the victims of the loss.

The same clear logic applies to the soviet complaint against non-recognition by foreign governments. The trouble in Russia is not the absence of recognized official relationship with outside nations but the state of government and conditions of life resulting from soviet policies and tactics. These tactics include repudiation of normal relationship with foreign governments by refusal to recognize that obligations are implied in such relationship.

WHAT JAPANESE SCHEME NEXT?

Cablegrams announce the safe arrival in Japan of the former prime-minister, the minister of finance and the minister of communications in the Chinese government, who were dismissed from office immediately following the defeat of General Chang Tso-lin by General Wu. Inasmuch as it has been reported that General Chang took refuge on a Japanese destroyer at Taku he probably also is safe in Japan.

It would be interesting to know what Japan proposes to do regarding these her formerly influential friends, in the government of China. Japan staked a lot on the success of General Chang against General Wu. She lost. But not before she had committed the characteristically stupid mistake of supplying Chang's army with artillery, shells, gunners and staff officers. General Wu was mainly responsible for the ousting of the pro-Japanese Anfu clique at Peking two years ago. Now he has driven Chang, the pro-Japanese military dictator, out of Peking, and with him Japan's three friends in the cabinet.

Japan very rarely has any use for foreigners, especially Chinese, who have ceased to occupy a position in which they may be of service to Japan. General Chang and the other refugees of the Peking government who have gone to Japan may be able to serve some further scheme of the Tokyo government. But in what way remains to be discovered.

THEATRICALS BARRED.

President Harding is entirely right in declining to receive at the White House the delegation of wives and children of men confined in federal prisons for offenses against the government during the war period. An amnesty crusade for the release of all the offenders in a batch should not be permitted to have any effect whatever. The crimes committed were not political offenses, as the radicals claim, and they were not all of the same degree of seriousness.

Moreover the theatrical device of taking the wives and children of the offenders to Washington is simply a publicity device of the radical organizations that are supporting the agitation for the release of the war criminals. It has been made possible by the money contributions of the friends of war slackers, enemy sympathizers, arsonists, bombthrowers and other unworthy citizens.

The attitude of the government that each prisoner's case must be considered separately is wholly correct. The individuals and organizations working for the wholesale release of the war offenders are not half so anxious to have liberty restored to these offenders as they are to give the impression that their joint action has influenced the government.

GENERAL McANDREW.

Major General James W. McAndrew, the army lost an officer who stood at the summit in respect to ability and devotion to duty, and yet how often did his name appear in the news and operations in France? He served well but inconspicuously. He was a chief of staff.

General McAndrew was not asked to lead a division or an army in the attack on the Hindenburg line or the Argonne Forest. Yet his services in bringing success to the American Expeditionary Force received and without doubt deserved highest official praise. As chief of the A. E. F. Staff he guided not men, artillery and tanks, but plans over the rough route to fulfillment. He had to see to supplies, transportation, storage, replacements of men and animals, gathering information about the enemy, making maps, propaganda, tactical employment of all troops, securing ammunition and training troops. His office in the French barracks at Chaumont was the center of the entire organization. He served the commander in chief as the right hand serves the head.

The strain of endless detail to be attended to can exhaust any man on whom it presses insistently enough. General Pershing, who saw his assistant daily in action, declares that he "died a casualty of the world war." The nation can hardly remember such faithful service more gratefully than it deserves.—New York Sun.

To the Worm.

Why is it when the poets fret
And search the fields for pretty words,
They write of daisies, dewy wet,
Of sunsets and of dicky-birds?
In other words, I would remark,
The writer chaps who scrape and squirm
Have kept one subject in the dark—
Why can't they praise the angle worm?

When man goes fishing in the brook
All khaki-clad, with heart elate,
He needs, of course, a line and hook,
Likewise he needs the tempting bait.

We sing of fishers' calm content,
The placid pipe, the rudder firm,
And quite forget while singing bent
Some metric mention of the worm.

So now I pipe my rusty flute
And search the clouds for words to start
The substance of a soft salute,
The tribute of a grateful heart.
And this I know, were you not here
Before my eyes to flirt and squirm,
There's be no pipe nor visions clear,
No joy, no hope, no fish, oh worm!

A Message From Parfinkle.

The following missive was shoved under our door some time during the night. As soon as we read the first sentence we recognized it was from Parfinkle:

"I take pen in hand to write you, please excuse pencil. As you know I have been in search of the man who made a mountain out of a mole-hill. The report is about ready; the mountain has been made. I have seen it."

"I was walking across the plains which are most frequented by moles when I saw a little man, a shriveled, bearded-looking fellow, who placed his 'check' against the ground, closed the eye the sun looked on and squinted along the grass. He waved one hand in the air as a brakeman signals the engineer and ever with more vigor he pressed his check into the dust."

"What ho," said I to this man, "do you think you are a bally ostrich?"

"The man was vexed. The arm whirled as an angry grut. 'Get out of the light!' he yelled. 'You are standing between me and the Himalayas.'"

"Now the joke of the whole affair, as it appeared to me, was that there were no Himalayas about. I scrutinized the landscape carefully and tapped the odd creature on the shoulder."

"Here you," said I, "you can't spoil me, you know."

"He looked up with what seemed to me to be a consuming pity. 'I was looking,' he said, 'into the heart of a gigantic range of mountains. Why did you come along and tap me out of them?'"

"If you are not an infernal liar, I asked him, 'will you tell me how I come you look at mountains when I scuff my different feet on the plains? And yet with that same toe I am so close I could kick you.'"

"The light of epiphany came into the small man's eyes. 'How much will you give me,' he asked, 'if I will let you look at my mountains?'"

"I will give," I answered, feeling in my pocket and wondering if the larger article were a poker chip or a half. 'I will give seven cents.'"

"You are even smaller than I am," the fellow answered, 'and you shall see the mountains.'"

"He showed me how to place my face to the ground, how to squint one eye to keep out the sunshine, the blue of the sky, and the chattering appeals of the shadow. He showed me how to see with the eye in the dirt, how to acquire the viewpoint of the ant, and soon I saw looming before me a world of new and grotesque proportions."

"Blades of grass became tall trees. Dust, dead leaves, bits of twigs and the down of the dandelion were once the towers of the desert. Beyond rose the mountains, towering the sky and presenting to the adventurer who would scale them, a vista of the impossible."

"I wept into the dust and looked through the mud my feet had made. 'This is an insurmountable barrier,' I repeated again and again."

—AN. SCHUSTER.

ONE OF OUR MOST IMPORTANT AND INFLUENTIAL CITIZENS.

NOTES and COMMENT

The Kansas City Star tackles the strawberry shortcake: "The strawberry shortcake is with us, stopping for the season's greetings, on its way up north. Strawberry shortcake is like the migratory bird. It starts early in the year, with the first breath of spring, down south, and comes north along with the higher temperature. Of late years those of us who knew the strawberry shortcake when it was one of the boasted institutions witnessed the modernization of it, and, being of the old-fashioned sort, we pine for the strawberry shortcake of the days gone by. Like so many of our great American institutions, the strawberry shortcake appears to have lost the glory that gave it the true loyalty of all American patriots."

New York Sun as to General Wood: "Major - General Leonard Wood, Governor-General of the Philippines, may find it practicable to spend an additional few months in the islands after the year's term for which he was appointed ended next August. General Wood's arrangements with the University of Pennsylvania, where he was appointed provost, are still unsettled. General Wood is recognized as an administrator of great ability; this was thoroughly established during his service in Cuba. His present duties in the Philippines are not less important to the United States than any work which he has done so well in the past."

The Boston Transcript tells of a series of events: "Notwithstanding the efforts of the comic specialists in the press and on the stage, the infraction of the prohibition laws is almost invariably an unworthy and awkward subject to deal with. Breaking the law is breaking the law, and no ingenuity can cleanse the ill-smelling fact. But once in a while comes a situation that is downright funny, and one has been stung in New England, at Springfield, Mass., where a certain runner, some 'hatted goods' into Springfield, this was illegal. They then sold it to certain parties. This was illegal. These parties in buying it committed an illegal act. They then paid with a bad check. And this was illegal. The pathetic victims of this piece of wickedness have now asked the district attorney to move against the parties that gave them the bad cheque."

Baltimore News on Beveridge: "There is something very refreshing in the dramatic return of Albert J. Beveridge to public life. When he entered the United States Senate he was the boy orator. He had to meet that measure and to make his way. It was the time of the young man in politics, and so he fitted the popular thought and his success was heralded far and near as showing American opportunities. But when he went out at the expiration of his term the belief was quite general that his career was over. But Beveridge kept going. He made speeches. He wrote a very able book. He lectured on topics dear to the common heart. He never joined the 'Has-Been' and 'Cast-Down Army.'"

The Medford Mail-Tribune says something about a Congressional case: "What gives a good many people neuralgic pains in the left shoulder is the third degree nullity of Congress when it comes to lending money to Russia. The latest revelation is the loaning of $187,000,000 to the battered-brained Kerevsky. Of this amount $87,000,000 disappeared as sick and clean as if it had been on deposit in the Bank of Jacksonville. The august body seems to be utterly unable to resist the temptation to pour U. S. gold down the international rat-hole, while throwing oratorical fits against the bonus bill."

New York Herald on Debs: "Mr. Debs, with his customary impudence, is calling for the release of the other violators of war laws who were sent to prison as he was but not let out when he was freed. 'I shall insist upon my being returned to the penitentiary with them.' He adds that if those still confined 'deserve to be kept in prison with convicted murderers I have no right to be at large.' Perhaps he can find it harder to get back into prison than it was to get out. His lack of gratitude toward the Administration which freed him has left him in no position to ask the favor of reincarceration."

Senator Borah and Johnson, working in double harness in the matter of insurgency for a long time, have come to the parting of the ways. ## THE SEXTON OF THE SEA.

You scatter flowers on the grassy mound
That marks the spot where your loved ones lie;
You bring them emblems with never a thought
For the dead beneath the sea.

For every ship that the hands of men
Have builded with chart and wheel,
The bones of men in a hundred-fold
Are laid beneath its keel.

A canvas shroud and an iron bar
At the weary head and wasted feet,
And lo, from the deck they move away,
From the hearts that throb and beat.

Soldiers and sailors and captains grand,
Babes from a mother's breast,
Vet with kisses they'll feel no more,
Come down in my arms to rest.

And I lay them gently alone to sleep,
Where the bed of sand is clear;
That none may wander, and none shall stray,
For I keep them, oh, so dear.

And hark! When the bell-buoy tolls at night,
Above the wave where fishes swim,
You may know that I keep my Father's watch,
For the day I shall give them back to him.

about YOUR HEALTH

What Myelitis Is and How It Is Now Treated.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

You will recall that the backbone is made up of a series of separate bones called vertebrae.

In the middle of each of these bones is a hole, so that the backbone presents a continuous hollow tube or tunnel. In this bony canal, protected from the probability of injury, is the spinal cord. Next to the brain, this precious tissue ranks highest in value of all our many parts.

Unfortunately for the human family, no portion of the body is free from the danger of disease. So the spinal cord may be the seat of inflammation.

This inflammation is called "myelitis."

As in the brain, in the spinal cord are two kinds of tissue—gray matter and white matter.

If the gray matter is inflamed, the disease is called polio-myelitis. But we don't need to memorize all these big names. It is enough to remember the word describing all inflammations of the spinal cord, myelitis.

There are a lot of things which may cause acute inflammation of the cord. Exposure, disipation, overwork and concussion or injury are among such causes.

Myelitis may be secondary to one of the infectious fevers like scarlet fever, typhoid, influenza, rheumatism, diphtheria and pneumonia, and to peritonitis, appendicitis, tonsillitis and many more diseases.

Certain chemical poisons sometimes cause this disease. Fortunately, myelitis is not commonly met. But when it does come its symptoms begin, like some other nervous diseases. The legs seem weak, heavy and stiff. The feet feel numb.

In a few days that other familiar symptom of special trouble appears—a feeling as if there were a band around the waist. This symptom is called the "girdle sensation."

There is increasing numbness of the limbs. There may be involuntary passages of the bowels and kidneys, and inability to walk.

These symptoms may remain stationary or grow worse for a time. In a favorable case improvement is noted, and after several months recovery may be complete.

If bad sores develop the case is considered more serious, but recovery of sensation is a good sign.

Rest in bed is an essential part of the treatment. It is difficult to impress on an ambitious patient the importance of this feature, but it must be practiced.

One of the important things is to guard against bed sores, and the danger of this complication must not be forgotten. Cushions and water beds should be used, and the skin must be watched and bathed to keep it healthy.

The underlying trouble will be treated by the physician, and the symptoms will be met as they appear. Patient care will be rewarded by notable improvement and possibly complete cure.

MOUNTAIN CAMP FUND IS SWELLED

Send a needy child to the Oakland municipal camp in the mountains. This is the slogan Oakland's Good Fellows are working under in an effort to swell the TRIBUNE'S Mountain Camp Fund for Needy Children, which will send many of the city's undernourished children to a healthful mountain resort for two weeks this summer. ## Third and Linden Playground Site Given to City

The $25,000 building and grounds of the Oakland Social Settlement at Third and Linden streets were presented today to the city of Oakland in fee simple by the directors of the Social Settlement, the only proviso being that it must be used as a playground and social center. The gift was made to the playground board, which accepted. Final acceptance now devolves on the mayor, to whom it was referred. This, according to city officials, is the first gift to the city of any consequence since the famous Edoff band stand was donated.

The deed of gift was signed by Caroline A. Chickering, president of the organization; Charlotte S. Playter, vice-president; Ella M. Vanligrit, secretary; Kate King, treasurer, and Grace Playter Johnson. The Oakland Social Settlement has been conducted for years in West Oakland as a means for recreation and improvement by the poor.

by The TRIBUNE and the Oakland recreation department a little more than two weeks ago, and since that time has grown to more than $500. As a starter The TRIBUNE donated $150.50, enough to maintain ten children at the camp for two weeks.

The latest donation to the fund was made today by the Contra Costa Hills club. Members of the club took up a collection last night on their moonlight party on the lake, and a check for $15.65, the cost of one child's fun, was sent to The TRIBUNE.

POLICEMAN'S BULLET HITS THUG; FIGHT

SAN LEANDRO, May 12.—Four shots were fired, and one outlaw is believed to have been seriously wounded, in a pistol duel fought at 1 o'clock this morning in the streets of this city between two robbers and Police Officer Harry J. Lyons.

The burglars had intended to rob the Junior Monarch Hay Press safe, according to City Marshal J. P. Peralta, who states that they had previously entered the Hay Press building and helped themselves to a searchlight and several minor articles. This had been reported by L. J. Toffelmier, owner of the place. Policeman Lyons had been placed on guard to watch for the possible return of the burglars later that night.

WATCHMAN FLEES WHEN GUN DRAWN.
Policeman Lyons reports that he saw two men enter the place shortly after midnight, and that he ordered them to put up their hands. The men obeyed, and Lyons marched them, their hands in the air, for two blocks, until he met E. J. Weesling, night watchman for the California Packing Corporation. Lyons says that he asked Weesling to hold the two men while he searched their clothes for hidden weapons.

According to Lyons, one of the robbers drew a gun from a holster which he carried hidden beneath his armpit. Thereupon, Lyons reports, Night Watchman Weesling turned and ran.

POLICEMAN FIGHTS DUEL WITH ROBBERS.
Lyons states that he fired at the robber, but in the uncertain light he could not see whether or not the shot took effect. The robber dodged behind a tree, and Lyons likewise posted himself behind a pole. Thus entrenched they continued the duel. The robbers subsequently got away, but the police found a pool of blood at the foot of a fence, which the robbers climbed in their escape. From this it is believed that one of the men was badly wounded. The police are watching all hospitals, believing that the wounded robber will have to apply for medical aid.

Lucy Stebbins Lauds College Girls' Work

"No university aims to turn out a finished product," Miss Lucy Stebbins, dean of women in the University of California, told the Business and Professional Women's club at yesterday's luncheon in the Broadway headquarters. "You may expect from the young college woman good powers of concentration, observation and interest in the work she undertakes. If she fails in these things she has failed in her university work," Miss Stebbins declared. "The business world may be of great help to the universities by helping the young women graduates to an understanding of it. She must still serve a period of apprenticeship and needs to be helped to the right start," the dean of women said. She pointed out that while the university is not becoming a vocational school through its 45 departments it is laying a foundation for a broad understanding of many different activities of women from the higher arts to household arts.

HOMER MADE WILL IS A PUZZLE TO PROBATE JUDGES

Old-time Steampoint Man Wrote Own Testament; Tangles Up Court.

A special session of the Probate court was necessary to interpret the will of George Roland, who died February 7, 1920. Superior Judge D. C. Robinson, to whom the will was presented for probate, found the task one of the most difficult and unusual he has undertaken since he has been on the Probate bench.

"You can imagine what a time we had," he said, "when I tell you the will was entirely without punctuation, the phrasing was an amateur attempt at legal style and the spelling totally in variance with Webster's standards."

Roland, an old Mississippi river steamboat engineer, ran steamers on the Sacramento river for a number of years before coming to California. He was 73 years old when he died.

Roland's distrust of lawyers extended even to his own nephew, Eugene W. Roland, who represented the executors of the will in court. When he prepared his will, instead of appealing to his nephew, Roland borrowed a number of copies of the legal forms and adapted the language to his own interpretation.

Roland's will bequeathed to his nephew, Eugene W. Roland, all the stock in the National Oil Land Syndicate, which Roland in his will called the National Oil Land Trust.

Mrs. Lilah Hutchinson, a niece, was given Roland's life insurance, amounting to $2500, and Lucien Roland Morrison, a nephew of Chicago, was given $2000 in cash. Edgar Sad, a grandson of Eugene W. Roland, was given $2000. One-half of the residue estate was bequeathed to Mrs. Lilah Hutchinson, the other half "to be divided among the beneficiaries" which included Mrs. Hutchinson, according to Judge Robinson's ruling.

A sister, Mrs. Giulietta M. Sad, is given the use of Roland's family home, 947 Central street, Oakland, for her lifetime, the house to revert to his estate upon her death. E. W. Roland and Mrs. Hutchinson are made executors.

Mrs. Robinson is the widow of William Howard Robinson, manager of the Oakland department store. Mrs. Robinson and Barker have been close friends since childhood.

$10,000 Gift to College of Pacific

STOCKTON, May 12.—Dr. Howard yesterday afternoon announced a $10,000 subscription to the fund being raised by the College of the Pacific in Stockton. The campaign does not open until next Tuesday, but the donor, whose identity Dr. Howard declines to reveal at present, stated he was about to leave for an extended trip and wished to make his contribution before he left. Dr. Howard states that the donor is an extremely wealthy Stockton man who made his fortune here.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms a uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nephritis, rheumatism, headaches, liver troubles, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

"When you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular in passage or attended by a burning sensation, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in the evening. Your kidneys will get fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is expensive and cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. It is the best remedy for all kidney troubles, serious kidney complications.—Advertisement.

State Police Radio Is Urged by Convention

MARTINEZ, May 12.—Establishment of a state police radio broadcasting station, for apprehension of criminals, particularly automobile thieves, was urged today at the convention of the California Branch of the International Bureau of Identification here.

This was included in a number of resolutions adopted unanimously, and which will be presented for adoption at the next session of the state legislature.

It was pointed out at the session that radio properly used will eventually become one of the most important factors in anti-criminal work, and the suggestion that such a police broadcasting station be established was met with the approval of every delegate at the convention.

While no definite plan was outlined, it was pointed out that from the proposed station license users of stolen cars and descriptions of men wanted by the police would be broadcast, and would be received by every police department in the state with less expense and in quicker time than by telephone or wire telephone.

WORLD EQUIP STATIONS.

Every police station will be equipped with a radio receiving set, if the proposed plan is carried. In cases where the broadcasting is of a secret nature special wave length and a communication which will be made to the legislature and contained in resolutions adopted by the convention follow:

"That the state, in terms of peace officers to eight years, instead of four and two years, the present length of office.

"That police departments have the power to arrest suspicious characters and hold them twenty-four hours without bail.

"Passage of a law whereby all dentists and opticians will be required to report to police sale of prescriptions and narcotics.

"Additional appropriation to the state bureau of identification for the purpose of requiring all automobile drivers to file their fingerprints with police.

"The Long Beach delegation was campaigning for a law to secure a year's convention for their city. The 1923 convention site will be named and officers will be elected tomorrow.

"A lie-detecting machine of John A. Larson, Berkeley officer, and said to be the only policeman holding a college degree, was tested yesterday afternoon and passed good test of machine was made on Ralph Jones, colored, who yesterday with two companions was held to answer to the Superior court on a charge of robbing Chinese on Jersey Island, April 23. When the test was concluded it was stated that Jones had truthfully answered questions that had been put to him, but that his answers were not in complete agreement with the machine's replies to replies to queries of the same nature when first questioned by local authorities. A transcript of his first statement was presented by Undersecretary William Veale to show the discrepancies. Jones was questioned with the consent and in the presence of his attorney, Mortimer Veale.

"The machine was operated by Larson and F. R. Waterbury, both of the Berkeley department. Referring to the "job" in the islands, Jones was asked if he had "screwed" the machine. He replied "yes" to both questions. In his first examination he had answered "no."

EXPLAINS PRINCIPLES.

Using the test of Jones, Larson explained the principles of his invention and to the delegates it was one of the most interesting of the convention.

Larson explained that the machine depends upon registering first normal heart action and respiration and then during questioning any abnormality of heart or respiration that may develop. He related instances of tests and directed attention to examination of 43 cards from among whom he was picked as being guilty of snuffing. Following the test the guilty girl, he declared, confessed.

Larson declared that the test of Jones was hardly a test at all, but that the machine is obtained when only the examining officers and the person are present.

Local officers, to substantiate the correctness of the machine, presented the test of Jones, who was turned State's evidence at the preliminary examination and implicated him in the robbery.

TOUR COUNTY.

Today the officers were taken on a tour of the county. Starting from Martinez at 9 o'clock, the officers were taken by automobile to Crockett, where they inspected the California-Hawaiian Sugar Company plant, and thence to Richmond. Returning to Martinez, they visited the Shell Oil Company plant and then went to Crockett, where they were the guests of W. H. George, manager of the Cowell Lime & Cement Company at a barbecue. One hundred officers were in the party. Late in the afternoon the officers returned to Crockett, where tonight they will be the guests of officials of the California-Hawaiian Sugar company at a banquet.

A business session and music program will be held after the banquet.

Need of greater State appropriations to enlarge the scope of the work of the State Bureau of Identification and to permit it to extend its present identification systems is imperative, according to sentiment voiced at the session last night.

Officers from all parts of the State united in demand that the service of the State Bureau is indispensable, and collectively urged delegates to personally have their legislators vote increased appropriations for the State at the next legislative session.

"The bureau has been doing a vast amount of work on the small appropriations it has had," C. S. Morrill, president of the association, declared. "Last year we had $42,500 to conduct our offices. In the same period crime cost California $550,000, and the recovery and return of $2,000,000 of stolen property."

Morrill and other delegates urged that increased appropriations be made, and that the State Bureau of Identification could issue semi-weekly circulars containing photographs of criminals, their operations and subjects of value to police officers. He placed the cost of such a publication at $25,000 annually. Morrill and other delegates urged that if the circular can be published all police officers in the State, instead of sending out individual circulars, send them to Sacramento and embody them in the State circular.

It was decided that an appropriation for the purpose would be one of the goals to be attained by the association at the next legislative session.

CORONERS SPEAK.

The trunk, which is battered and worn, and has a bottom was found by workmen on the new state highway when the house was dismantled.

It was identified as having been one of the original receptacles of the kind to come into the state by ox-team, by an almost obliterated legend, "McIntyre, Green River, '49," L. H. Rodenhugh, traffic manager of the local road, reported the find to officials of the road and the trunk was sent to Sacramento where it will help add to the big building devoted to curios and relics of the gold-seeking days of the pioneers.

Device Eliminates Buzzing in Radio

CHICAGO, May 12.—A device for eliminating the buzzing in radio and of operating the wireless sets by attaching them directly to the lighting wires through an ordinary socket instead of using the storage battery has been perfected by B. F. Meifner, a government expert during the war, he announced today. The radio is attached to any 110-volt alternating current through the ordinary light socket. In place of rectifiers and filters now used in attempts to eliminate the hum, Meifner uses balancing devices. The electric current in the light wires is stepped down to six volts. Meifner formerly was connected with the army and navy aircraft department and assisted John Hays Hammond in perfecting a radio torpedo during the war. Devices which are said to obtain the same results as Meifner's are said to have been perfected by the government recently, but details have not been made public. Meifner said he had been working on his invention for three years and did not know whether it was similar to the government's.

LESSON NO. 52. The Wave Meter.

One of the most important instruments used by radio engineers, inspectors and experimenters is the wave meter. The name itself indicates that the wave meter is an instrument employed to measure the length of the ether wave emitted by a radio transmitter or the length of the ether wave to which a receiving set is tuned. In a given oscillating circuit, that is, a circuit containing inductance and capacity in which oscillations occur as a result of the discharge of the condenser through the inductance coil, the size of the condenser and the size of the inductance coil determine the frequency with which the condenser discharges through the circuit. If we know the frequency of the current flowing in a circuit we may determine the wave length of the circuit from simple relation, wave length equals the rate at which the waves travel, divided by the frequency.

Therefore a circuit of known capacity and known inductance has a known frequency, hence a known wave length. The wave meter consists of a circuit containing a condenser and an inductance coil, the combination of these two elements resulting in a circuit of known frequency or known wave length. If either the condenser or inductance coil is made variable the wave length of the wave meter is changed, the greater the value of inductance or capacity the longer the wave length and the smaller the values of inductance or capacity the shorter the wave length. In most wave meters the inductance coil is of fixed value and Galvanometer—An instrument used for detecting the presence of, and ascertaining the force and direction of current in a circuit. Consists of a small flat needle pivoted in the center of a hollow coil of wire, moving in a pointer over a graduated scale. See Mirror Galvanometer and Tangent Galvanometer.

Field magnets—Those electromagnets producing the magnetic field through which the armature of a dynamo or motor rotates.

the condenser is of the variable type.

The Wave Meter

The wavelengths for the different settings of the condenser may be marked directly on the condenser scale or the scale may be marked only in degrees and the wavelength obtained from a chart. This chart shows the values of wavelengths corresponding to the condenser settings in the form of a graph. Figure 1 shows a wave meter consisting of a fixed inductance coil, a variable condenser and a thermo ammeter. This type of wave meter is useful in tuning transmitting stations, the thermo ammeter being used to show when the wave meter is adjusted to the same wavelength as the circuit under measurement.

In determining the wavelength of a transmitting station the transmitter is placed in operation and the wave meter shown in Figure 1 is brought within a few feet of the ground lead. The condenser is varied until maximum deflection is noted on the thermo ammeter which means that the wave meter is adjusted to resonance, that is, the same wavelength as the transmitter. The desired wavelength is then read from the condenser scale or from the chart provided for that purpose. This method may be employed in tuning either spark transmitters or continuous wave transmitters and is preferable to the aughtily method sometimes used. In determining the wave length to which a receiving system is adjusted the wave meter shown in Figure 2 is brought close to the ground lead at a point remote from the receiving set itself. With the receiver adjusted to the incoming signal the buzzer of the wave meter is set into operation and the condenser of the wave meter is varied until the maximum sound from the buzzer is heard in the telephone, which indicates that resonance has been obtained. The desired wave length is then read from the condenser scale provided with the wave meter for that purpose.

RADIO SIGNALS RECEIVED ON A MOTOR TRUCK.

The special radio concert broadcast from Schemenady for the entertainment of the passengers on the Lackawanna train was also heard by the driver of a motor truck. Installed on the truck was a radiophone receiving set which reproduced the music while the truck was being driven from a nearby town to the city.

HOME RUN WINS GAME.

MASONIC CLUB HAS OUTING.

RICHMOND, May 12.—The Missouri club, numbering two hundred members, held a big picnic at East Shore Park yesterday. The morning was taken up in various games and sports. Luncheon was served. After a picnic supper at 8 o'clock the evening was occupied with dancing.

PIANO ADAPTED TO RADIO FOUND PROPERLY TONED

Instrument Which Sends Out Perfect Music by Wireless Found.

American inventive genius supplies our wants. For some time radio broadcasting stations have been seeking a piano whose tones would carry well on the ether waves. These instruments have been hard to find.

The TRIBUNE's new radio broadcasting studio at the Hotel Oakland has been supplied with a new piano which is declared to be especially adapted to radio transmission. It is an Aldrich, installed by Sherman & Clay company.

The tones, tuned to orchestra pit work, flow out the back of the instrument directly in front of the receptive device, and the instrument is expected to be heard far and wide. Its tones are of such a nature that they carry well, and the real piano tones, instead of the shallow plink! plink! plink! so familiar to listeners in, will be transmitted into the thousands of homes that listen in on The TRIBUNE's broadcast.

Frank Briggs, manager of the Sherman & Clay store, has declared the piano to be the best that can be produced for radio transmission.

Tenor Solos Will Mark Radio Program

Jack Ribault, a tenor, recently of the Community Opera, and Victor Garcia, pianist of the Milina Conservatory of Music, will provide the music to be broadcast from Rockridge tomorrow afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock. Garcia will accompany Ribault and will play several solos. Ribault will sing "The Sheik," "Unchained," and "Rigoletto."

WIFE GETS INDIAN IN BANK ROBBERY CASE TO GIVE UP

Woman Seeks Reward for Recovery of Fortuna Bank's Money.

EUREKA, May 12. — Marion Rube, half-breed Indian, caught by the sheriff of Humboldt county for the past ten days to tell what he knows about the holdup of the Bank of Fortuna, near here, surrendered himself last night by Deputy Sheriff Tait at the latter's home, 60 miles north of Eureka. Rube was lodged in the county jail. His surrender, the authorities said, was brought about through his wife, who is the mother of three small children. Mrs. Rube appeared at the district attorney's office here several days ago with a proposition looking to the surrender of her husband on a guarantee from the district attorney that she would receive the reward of 10 per cent offered by the insurance company for the recovery of the money stolen from the Bank of Fortuna. Rube, according to the statements given out by the authorities, has promised to tell the "whole story" of the Fortuna bank robbery within ten days and "arrange for the return of the money." A sheriff's posse has been searching the woods in the northern part of the county in west of Rube. His wife told the district attorney that Rube would do battle if discovered by his pursuers and being heavily armed and known as a crack shot would kill "at least one member of the party before he was taken."

TIRE FACTORY AMAZES VISITORS

In order to acquaint themselves with the activities of the manufacturing plants in the East Bay district, and to ascertain first hand the scope and magnitude of various industries, a large party comprising members of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce visited the new factory of the Coast Tire & Rubber Company in Oakland yesterday afternoon.

Headed by C. A. Muller, the Coast Tire distributor in Berkeley, the Chamber of Commerce members motored to the factory at Fifth and Washington streets, and were taken on a three-hour trip and made thoroughly acquainted with every process of tire making by officials of the Coast Tire & Rubber Company. Every part of the new, modern factory was visited by the Chamber of Commerce members and each detail of tire-making was fully explained, from the arrival and inspection of the raw material to the final inspection and shipping of the finished product.

As a unit, the visitors expressed themselves as being amazed by the modernity and completeness of the tire factory. By observing tire built in their entirety, they were able to ascertain at first hand the underlying reasons that have contributed to the tremendous success and popularity of Coast Tires.

The visit of the members of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce to the Coast Tire factory is but one of the many scheduled during this season. The officials of the Coast Tire & Rubber Company informed THE TRIBUNE that they have scheduled a number of visits of similar organizations throughout the summer months.

LABOR LEADERS INDICTED FOR CHICAGO CRIMES

Speedy Trial Demanded of Men Accused of Bombing and Murders.

CHICAGO, May 12 (By the Tribune Staff).—The indictment returned today by the grand jury in the case of the "Big Tim" Murphy, Fred Mader, Cornelius ("Cow") Shea and five others, indicted for murder in connection with the killing of two policemen in the bomb war attributed to labor gangsters, was rushed to trial and sent to the gallows, was made today by the State's attorney's office. The eight were named in indictments voted by the grand jury in special session last night.

Additional indictments were expected today in the drive of the police and law enforcement organizations against the so-called "labor outlaws."

HELD WITHOUT BAIL. Mader, Murphy, Shea and others indicted were ordered held without bail to answer to the indictments. Assistant State's Attorney Gorman made the statement today that "if the law in the anarchists' case growing out of the Haymarket riots is to have any effect, the State of Illinois now has sufficient evidence to hang Murphy, Mader, Shea and possibly others."

The five others indicted are Isaac Brown, Daniel McCarthy, Jerry Hogan, Thomas Hogan and Robert McCloud. Hogan is a former policeman and Hogan is a saloon-keeper who is said to have acted as the "employment agent" for labor leaders desiring the services of bombers and slugs. The others are officials of various Chicago unions.

SPECIAL PROSECUTION. The indictments returned in connection with recent bombing outrages and police killings are for-runners of scores of others, officials said.

More than 400 persons were arrested in the past few days and but few have been released, with the greater number denied freedom, even on writs of habeas corpus.

The eight are charged specifically with the killing of Terrance Lyons, acting police lieutenant. The slaying of Lyons followed the murder of Thomas Clark, patrolman, on guard at a building which previously had been bombed, police say, by labor men because it was owned by the "employment agent" for labor leaders.

The decision handed down by K. M. Landis, former Federal Judge, which was intended to settle the dispute between contractors and the Building Trades Council.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

by IRVIN S. COBB

At the Crossing of Their Ways

Beyond question his honor on the bench was cross-eyed. Some persons went so far as to say that he was the cross-eyed person or the cross-eyedest person, as the grammar may be, in the known world.

On a morning when for some reason or other his angles of vision seemed particularly out of alignment there were arraigned before him for preliminary examination three youths charged with hypothecating a stranger's automobile to their own uses. The oldest of the trio, and the supposed ringleader, stood between his two alleged confederates. Addressing the middle one the judge said:

"Young man, you are charged here with grand larceny. How do you plead, guilty or not guilty?"

Instantly the one on the left said:

"Not guilty, your honor?"

"I wasn't addressing you," snapped his honor. "I was addressing this other accused. Wait until you're spoken to."

"Why judge," protested the one on the right. "I ain't said a word."

It has been announced that the melody and rhythm which engenders in the bosoms of our Pullman porters will be developed and encouraged and will bear fruit in organized choral clubs and peregrinating quartettes whose sweet sounds will beguile the weary traveler and sooth his savage breast.

Pullman porters will no longer be assigned to trains haphazardly, but will be picked with an ear to their harmonic values in the total ensemble. No train will be made up without a lead, a tenor, a baritone and a bass. At stated intervals they march through the train, single file, chanting their messages, somewhat in the following fashion:

Solo: I've got news!
 Cho: He's got news!
 Solo: I've got wonderful news!
 Put on your collars, put on your shoes
 You ain't got very much time to lose!
 This is the very first call so far,
 Breakfast is served in the dining car!
 Cho: Breakfast—breakfast—who wants breakfast?
 Now being served,
 Solo: I'll say served!
 Cho: Now being served in the dining car!

Certainly this is a vast improvement over the present system. And the possibilities for further development! Positively enchanting! It is evening, say, and all the customers are tucked in their little berths. The Pullman Porters' Quartette put their heads together at the end of the car and warble in rich low tones:

Cho: Good night, ladies,
 Good night, gentlemen,
 Good night, peoples,
 We're gonna leave you now.

Solo: Merrily, we roll along,
 Cho: Roll along, roll is good,
 Solo: Merrily we roll along,
 Try to get some sleep!
 Cho: If you have a lovely rest,
 Lovely rest, lovely rest,
 You're a better man than I am,
 Gunga Din.

COME SATURDAY AND SUNDAY SPECIAL OUTDOOR SALE

---Anyone who has $50 and a vision to see what is just around the corner (the era of the East Bay's greatest prosperity is at hand) will be grateful--and will profit--if he grasps this opportunity and acts today. Today is the day of the low market. Tomorrow residential property must advance. This is inevitable. Never again will homesites like Trestle Glen's or Lakeshore Oaks' be obtainable at

SUCH PRICES AND MONTHLY PAYMENTS

A visit to the property Saturday or Sunday will bear out the statement that there is not a more beautiful, comfortable or convenient residential park in all America--and that's a pretty broad claim--than

"Lakeshore Oaks"

TRESTLE GLEN

---Trestle Glen, one of the historic beauty spots of the Bay District, is being sold off today and tomorrow in residence lots.

---It is being disposed of at such amazingly low prices as $1250 for a 40-foot lot and upon a cash payment of only $50.

---It is right at the heart of Oakland, on the shores of Lake Merritt, surrounded by the most exclusive residences of the East Bay section.

---It is central to San Francisco--36 minutes from Market street by fast Key Route Express.

---It is a situation which occurs not once in a lifetime--and only because the City of Oakland failed to take over a logical part of its park system.

---It is today one of the most beautiful locations in California, covered with magnificent oaks that it would take centuries to replace.

---The 108 lots which are to be sold are equally desirable for moderate priced homesites or for profitable investment.

---Eighty per cent of the finest residences immediately surrounding Trestle Glen are the homes of prominent San Francisco business men who have recognized it as the most convenient and desirable location.

---It is permanently restricted but open to the average citizen who wants a moderate priced home. (Only 25% cash required to build a home.)

---It is as beautiful as the distant mountain canyons and yet not much farther from the Ferry Building than a down town hotel.

---Only after public-spirited citizens had for years exhausted every possible effort to have the City of Oakland acquire Trestle Glen as a public park have the owners consented to its subdivision.

---It is a class of property that has rarely been opened up to the public since the days of the Forty-niners.

We repeat: Anyone who has $50 cash and the vision to see what is just a few years ahead will be grateful for having read this announcement.

---Eighty per cent of the finest residences in this and surrounding property are the homes of well-known Oakland and San Francisco business men who have recognized it as the most attractive location in the entire Bay District.
